PEACEFUL PROTEST: Bundled up against the wind and sub-freezing temperature, a group of about 55 men, women and children marched along the Princeton University side of Nassau Street last Saturday morning to protest the Israeli government's treatment of Palestinians in the occupied West Bank and the Gaza Strip. Their hand-lettered placards bore slogans such as "Stop U.S. Aid to Israel" and "Self-Determination for the Palestinians." The protesters came from a wide area and included some Palestinians who are studying in Princeton.

Student Hospitalizations Focus Attention On Excessive Drinking at University Clubs

Boys will be boys and Princeton University students will drink and get drunk during Sign-In Night.

Maybe not any more. Not after excessive drinking sent six Princeton undergraduates to the hospital Saturday night, one in a coma in critical condition, and 39 more for treatment at the school's McCosh Infirmary. Sign-In is a procedure whereby sophomores register at the University's eight, privately-owned open eating clubs on Prospect Avenue.

After the binge, University officials and the students themselves were having second thoughts. President Harold Shapiro issued a statement deploring the excessive drinking (see box, page 22) and eating club officers were expected to meet this week to discuss ways to prevent similar incidents.

Last year, there were only 20 alcohol-related incidents during Sign-In, Dr. Louis Pyle, the University's health service director, reported. But according to Kevin Ferry, a University alcohol counselor, who was quoted in an article in the school paper, The Daily Princetonian, 116 students have been admitted this year to McCosh Infirmary for alcohol consumption; for the entire 1986-87 academic year 82 students were admitted.

Assistant Dean of Students Stephen Cochrane commented that the University cannot shut down the clubs or prohibit parties because they are private. The eating clubs, he added, have full legal responsibility over students who drink there.

His remarks were echoed this week by Borough Chief Michael Carnevale, who explained, when asked why police had made no charges,

Council Considers a Law To Ban Banks on Nassau

A law banning banks, offices, and other financial institutions from locating on the ground floor of buildings in the Central Business District was expected to be introduced by Borough Council at its Tuesday, February 9, meeting. Mayor Sigmund, in her New Year's Day message, introduced the idea of such an ordinance, and pledged her support to it.

Three banks, whose applications are in the approval process or are otherwise protected, will not be affected by the ordinance. These are the National State Bank, scheduled to move into the Laidlaw, Adams, Peck building at 138 Nassau Street; the new Palmer Square Bank on Hulfish Street North; and the bank on the corner of Nassau and Maple Streets,

School Board Backs Plan to Switch Fifth Grade to Elementary Schools

The Princeton Regional School Board voted 8-0 to keep fifth graders in the middle school for the next two years.

Then, beginning in September, 1990, the fifth grade would be moved back to the three Princeton elementary schools: Community Park, Riverside, and Littlebrook. This would result in the re-establishment, in two years, of a K-5, 6-8 and 9-12 system in the public schools.

The vote came after School Superintendent Carol Choye and other members of the administrative staff presented these recommendations at a meeting Tuesday night in the cafeteria of the middle school. At least 125 parents and staff members were in the audience.

The School Board's November decision to reopen Littlebrook because of a boom in elementary school age population led to its reconsideration of where to place fifth graders. They were moved from elementary school to middle school five years ago, when Littlebrook was closed because of a declining elementary school population.

The Superintendent's recommendations also included a phasing-in of the opening of Littlebrook. Two-thirds of the building would be used in September, and additional classes would be brought in over the following years.

The school budget will reflect the phasing-in of the costs related to the Littlebrook opening. The anticipated 17 cent rise (per $100 of assessed valuation) in the Borough and 15 cent increase in the Township should each go down a little over one cent.

The decision to open Littlebrook next year as a K-4 school with a population limited to approximately 215 allowed the budget to be reduced by $336,312. In addition, the school can still obtain rental monies. The Montessori School, which has petitioned to remain, will probably continue as a tenant. The Lewis School has been looking at other facilities.

The Superintendent's report indicated a possible need to re-open Princeton's fourth elementary school, Johnson Park, within the next two or three years. Johnson Park, the smallest of Princeton's public schools, was closed seven years ago.

The future might also bring the need for an expansion of the middle school. According

Tigers Nip Penn, 60-57, at Palestra

The Princeton basketball team hung on for a 60-57 triumph over Penn at the Palestra Tuesday night, setting up a showdown with league-leading Dartmouth in Jadwin Gym this Friday.

The Tigers are now 4-1 in league play (12-5 overall), and hope to pin the first Ivy loss on the 6-0 Big Green, when the two meet here. They will play in Hanover on Saturday, February 27. Cornell, at 5-1, is also in the thick of the race, which probably will be won by one of these three teams.

The Quakers suffered their second league defeat, losing to Pete Carril's team for the fourth time in five years at home. The defending Ivy champions are not the same team they were a year ago with Bruce Lefkowitz and Perry Bromwell, who both averaged close to 19 points per game.

Unable to match Princeton's ability to sink three-point shots, and awful from the foul line (one of six in the second half), the Red and Blue lost the lead midway through the first half and never caught up. Penn's last lead was 15-14, with a little over seven minutes to play.

to Dr. Choye, the school functions best with a population between 500 and 700. Population projections show it will exceed 700 by 1991.

One factor in the Superintendent's recommendation to keep fifth graders in the middle school for the next two years was the effect their removal would have on the school's program. Enrollment would drop below optimum, and the school would be under utilized.

Assistant School Superintendent Donald Maiocco said staff and community meetings would continue during the upcoming transition time, giving the administration time to re-examine, and possibly restructure, the fifth grade program. He also held out the possibility that fourth graders might be introduced to foreign language and instrumental music.

During the discussion by the Board which preceded the vote, Joel Cooper commented that the program in the fifth grade in the middle school is a richer program, "and we have to bring the enriched program in to the elementary school, the neighborhood school."

Allen Grossman said he didn't share the enthusiasm for middle school as the best place for fifth graders, but he did not want the middle school programs to be affected.

"As a parent of a fourth grader, this is one tough decision for me," said Patty Sofronoff. "But as long as I know we're looking at a K-5 in the future, I'll support it."

Ann McGoldrick pointed out that the Community Park population in 1990-91 — with the addition of the fifth grade — was projected at 481. She said that it had become clear to her that Johnson Park would have to open then, since Community Park can't accommodate 481 students. She wanted to make certain that at least one redistricting plan was being considered for that eventually, and was assured that this was the case.

Her feeling was that she did not want to be committed to the reopening of a second elementary school only two years after Littlebrook was opened.

The proposed redistricting plan (see page 3) was not voted on at this meeting. It will be the subject of further discussions by both the public and the Board of Education, and will also have to be approved by various governmental agencies.

Special Events Planned For Black History Month

Rider College has scheduled a number of special events for Black History Month in February.

Jenifer Lewis, a Broadway performer, will present a one woman show, "From Billie to Lena with Jenifer," Wednesday, February 17, at 7 in the Student Center Theater. Her program celebrates black history through the eyes of history's top black female vocalists.

On the following day, Thursday, February 18, Gwendolyn Grant, columnist for Essence magazine, will present a lecture at 7, also in the theater. The Capitol City Dancers from Trenton will perform Saturday, February 20, at 7 in the theater, while the Keith Marks Jazz Band is scheduled to play Tuesday, February 23, at 8 in the Student Center commuter lounge.

Comedian and civil rights activist Dick Gregory will speak Thursday, February 25, at 8 in the Student Center Theater. Mr. Gregory is an entertainer who has lectured at colleges and universities throughout the United States. He has a reputation for sharp satire and biting humor in his fast-paced presentations.

County College Seeks Rooms for Its Students

Mercer County Community College is seeking area home owners who want to rent extra rooms or apartments to students. Rooms are particularly needed for male and minority students. The college serves only as a listing agency, and all financial and other arrangements are made between the owner and the student.

For further information, or to offer a room for rent, call the Student Activities Office at 586-4800, extension 435 or 429.

Proposed Redistrict Plan for Elementary Schools

The redistricting plan presented to the Princeton Regional School Board by School Superintendent Carol Choye shows a September, 1988, elementary school population of 215 students in Littlebrook (only two-thirds open), 367 students at Community Park, and 307 students at Riverside.

With the addition of the fifth grade in September, 1990, the numbers would be, respectively, 327 in Littlebrook, 481 in Community Park, and 381 in Riverside.

The majority of students attending Littlebrook would come from Riverside. Children from the Seminary apartments would be moved from Community Park to Littlebrook to avoid their having to cross hazardous streets.

Most of the students attending Community Park would continue there. If Johnson Park is reopened sometime in the next few years, some Community Park students would be assigned there, along with children from new housing.

Children from Hibben, Magie, Lawrence and Butler housing would continue at Riverside.

About 15 percent of Princeton Regional elementary school youngsters are black. Under this redistricting plan, which has to be approved by the School Board, the school population at Littlebrook would be 17 percent black; at Community Park, 19 percent black; and at Riverside, 10 percent black. The permissible range is 10 to 19 percent.

The percentage of children whose national origin is Hispanic, plus Asian/Pacific Islanders, is ten. This population in Littlebrook, Community Park, and Riverside, is, respectively, eight, eight and 14 percent.

Hazardous Route Busing Will Begin in Borough

On Wednesday, February 17, some 43 first- to fourth-grade students will begin taking a bus to and from Community Park School. This is the result of an agreement between the Borough and the Board of Education to begin busing these Borough youngsters because their walk to Community Park entails crossing a hazardous intersection.

The agreement came out of a request for hazardous route busing by a group of parents. This request was followed by negotiations among the parents, the School Board, and the Borough.

A number of years ago, the Township began transporting some of its students to school because of hazardous crossings. The formula worked out then between the Township and the School Board — the municipality pays two-thirds of the cost and the School Board one-third — will be repeated in the Borough. Currently, about 20 Township students are being bused because of hazardous routes.

Councilwoman Jane Terpstra estimates that the first year of busing will cost approximately $6,000. The Borough will pick up $4,000 of the tab and the School Board $2,000.

Most of the children to be transported live in the western section. The route crossings identified as hazardous are Mercer Street and Nassau Street, and University Place and Nassau Street, plus a number of Bayard Lane cross-

Proposed Township Budget Would Require A Nine Percent Increase in Property Taxes

Township taxpayers can expect an increase of nine percent in their property taxes for calendar year 1988 if Township Committee adopts the budget proposed by the Township Administrator.

Township Committee got its first look at the proposed budget during a work session last Monday night. A Borough Council/Township Committee review of the joint agency budget will be held February 10, at 6 at Borough Hall. A second joint review will take place Saturday, February 20, at 9:30 at Township Hall. Township Committee is expected to introduce the proposed budget Monday, February 22, at a meeting which will begin at 8:30 instead of the customary 8 p.m. and will include further discussion before introduction. The public is welcome to any of these meetings.

The proposed municipal budget totals $10.5 million, which represents an increase of $409,985 or four percent over the 1987 total. The estimated municipal tax rate is 54 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, an increase of five cents, or 10 percent, above 1987. Five cents is the same amount by which the 1987 municipal tax rate was increased over the 1986 municipal rate.

Adding the 54 cents to the $1.45 and the $1.05 which are projected to be the school and County rates, respectively, for the Township, the total Township tax rate for 1988 will be $3.04. Last year's rate was $2.78. The 26 cent change is a nine percent increase overall.

For the owner of a $150,000 home, this will come to $390 in additional taxes in 1988; the owner of a $250,000 home will pay an additional $650.

The recommended sewer rate is $3.90 per 100 cubic feet, which represents an increase of 22 cents or six percent more than in 1987. According to Township Administrator James J. Pascale, the major reason for the increase in the sewer rate is that the Township's share of treatment costs are higher — partly due to increased flow to the plant, and partly due to the drop in the equalization ratio as Township properties become more valuable.

Five-Year Projection. According to Mr. Pascale, the key to the 1988 Township budget lies in the five-year budget projection which he and Assistant Administrator Christine Smeltzer developed. This analysis was undertaken in order to help the Township plan for the future and to minimize future dramatic increases in taxes.

Mr. Pascale points out that the largest increases in future years will be in the area of debt service to pay for capital needs such as road improvements, a new firehouse, land acquisitions and capital equipment. Although the 1988 municipal budget could have been paid for without any increase in the municipal tax rate — by applying some of the Township's $1.5 million in surplus to the $409,985 increase — he is recommending increasing the amount of surplus for 1988 in order to keep the 1989 tax rate increase to five cents instead of the 12 cents he projects.

The Township is expected to bond $2.3 million of capital improvements in 1988. This includes $1.3 million in roadway reconstruction; additional funding for the regional detention basin to serve the Griggs Farm development; continued computerization of various municipal offices; funding to develop a recreation and park master plan; improvements to the Valley Road building, Police headquarters and the Sewer Operating Committee offices; and purchase of safety equipment for the Police and Fire departments.

In keeping with a two-year contract negotiated with the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association for the Police Department — which is then applied to all municipal employees — the Township's proposed 1988 operating budget includes a six percent across-the-board salary increase. That contract is in the second year. Additional increments to part-time and entry-level employees are also budgeted, to help keep the compensation levels competitive with Route 1.

Other than salary increases, the four percent rise in the proposed operating budget is due to increased pension and insurance costs; increased landfill costs; the upgrading of a part-time clerical assistant in the Municipal Court to full-time; expenses expected to be incurred by the Housing Board in the implementation of the affordable housing program; and more money for tree planting and pruning.

The Recreation Department, the Public Library, Corner House and the Shade Tree Commission all had their budget requests reduced significantly by the Administrator. Each is expected to appeal to the governing bodies for the restoration of the cuts. The Recreation Department, for instance, sought additional funds to hire two additional employees to assist in the care and maintenance of its parks and recreational facilities.

Mr. Pascale says he is very aware of the need for additional maintenance personnel but points out that the Township will be putting money in the capital budget for a study of the parks. He is recommending against hiring additional maintenance people at this time, pending the report, which he says will be similar to the Shand Report on the Fire Department. Meanwhile, he says there are some state anti-littering funds available, about $2,300 for the Township and a smaller amount for the Borough, part of which he proposes be used to help the maintenance situation.

The Administrator's recommended budget is $244,998 below the 4.5 percent cap and $272,236 below the five percent cap. As in previous years, Mr. Pascale recommends that Township Committee adopt the five percent cap in order to provide for unforeseen circumstances, and to build a larger cap base for the budgets of subsequent years. He says it is due to this financial strategy that the Township has not incurred a cap problem over the last several years.

TRENTON ROUNDUP

Help for House Movers

The State Assembly, by a vote of 74-0, has passed legislation that would allow a property tax exemption for those who move certain historic structures to prevent their being demolished.

Gerard Naples, D-Trenton, said he introduced the bill after talking with officials in Princeton Borough, which has instituted an "Adopt-a-House" program.

Last year, developer Eric Keller moved a turn-of-the-century house across Nassau Street, to the Maple Street intersection. It is in the process of being converted into a drive-in bank.

No Doubling of Toll

Gov. Thomas Kean has announced he will not allow the doubling of tolls on the Garden State Parkway. Instead, he will permit a smaller increase on access and exit ramps.

The Governor said he would not permit any increase at "barrier" toll booths (those on the highway itself) until at least 1989.

Morven Institute Given Name

A measure to create a historical institute at Morven, and to name it for the late Senator Walter E. Foran, has been released by an Assembly committee. The bill, if approved, would create the Walter E. Foran Institute of American Studies at Morven. It would offer summer seminars for teachers; house materials related to the occupants of Morven; operate seminars for the public; and provide materials on the State's architecture, decorative and fine arts, and historic archaeology.

Regulating "Kosher" Foods

The Assembly has passed a bill regulating the use of the word "kosher" on specially prepared food. Under the measure, manufacturers or packagers of kosher food would be the only ones allowed to label the products "kosher," "parve" or "glatt." These foods would have to be prepared under a rabbi's supervision.

Aid for Homeless

A measure that would provide $14.3 million for the State's homeless was approved by the State Senate. It would appropriate funds to build and improve shelters, construct single-room units, and establish programs to help the homeless become self-sufficient.

The bill will now go to the Assembly for a vote.

Anti-"Draize Test"

The State Senate has approved legislation that would ban the "Draize Test" on rabbits. This places the substance being tested in the eyes of a rabbit to determine whether the material is dangerous.

Chemical, pharmaceutical, and household product companies throughout the State conduct the test.

Home Owner Insurance Rates Cut

The State's Insurance Department has approved home owner insurance rate reductions for companies that serve about 15 percent of the State, and is considering further reduction for companies serving another 40 percent, according to officials. The reductions on an average policy of about $350 a year would amount to about $87.

Companies involved include State Farm Fire and Casualty Co., Aetna Casualty and Surety Co., U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., and Guaranty Underwriters Inc.

A department spokesman said the lowered rates could be attributed to a variety of factors, including the increased use of smoke detectors.

ings. These are at Stockton Street, Boudinot Street, Hodge Road, Cleveland Lane, Westcott Road, and Leigh Avenue. Bus stops for the children will be at Stockton Street and Hodge Road, Library Place and Hodge Road, and Dickinson Street and Alexander Street.

"The traffic volume and potential hazard have both grown in the past several years," said Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund at a press conference held to announce the busing. "It's another price we pay as a community for the growth around us. But we don't want our children to pay the price."

The Mayor and School Board president Corinne Kyle pointed out that the State will pay only for busing outside a two-mile limit. In fact, they noted that the State exacts a penalty if a school board chooses to bus within that geographical limit.

"I could run for Governor on that issue alone," quipped the Mayor.

Police-Town Meetings

The Borough Police Department will hold a series of three town meetings on the subject of home security. The aim of the evening meetings is to help residents become better acquainted with police patrol and crime prevention programs.

Police representatives will offer a number of home security tips. Questions on the presentation, or on specific neighborhood problems, will be answered by Police Chief Michael Carnevale and Police Commissioner Mark Freda.

The first meeting will take place Thursday, February 18, at First Baptist Church. Others will be held Tuesday, March 1, at Borough Hall, and Monday, March 14, at Hook & Ladder Firehouse. All will start at 7:30 p.m. and end about 9.

Mr. Freda called these meetings "the beginning of an ongoing program between the Police Department and the community."

fic fine monies, was indicted last week by a Mercer County Grand Jury.

The 26-year-old New Brunswick resident has been charged with theft, official misconduct and misapplication of entrusted property. The indictment focuses on an alleged initial theft of $250 between March 30 and April 15.

An investigation was started after Violations Clerk Robyn McKee informed Borough Administrator Mark Gordon that there were some discrepancies concerning funds collected as partial payments for moving violations and parking tickets, an area Ms. Cameron was in charge of.

Mr. Gordon ordered a check by the Borough's auditing firm, and it was found that $2,675 was missing.

Borough officials turned the information they had collected over to the Borough police department on May 28. The findings of an investigation led by Det. Ralph Terracciano were presented to the special grand jury.

Mercer County Prosecutor Jeffrey I. Rubin described the shortages as only a small percentage of the total volume of fines levied annually in municipal court and collected by the Violations Department. The indictment, he said, is based on the initial report of the alleged theft of $250.

If convicted on the second-degree offense of official misconduct, Ms. Cameron faces a possible jail sentence of five to ten years.

Council Goes Through Joint Budget Figures

In preparation for its Wednesday, February 10, meeting with Township Committee to go over the budgets of the two municipalities' joint agencies, Borough Council last week met to "walk through" the figures.

Before dealing with the proposed figures for the 17 joint agencies, members of Borough Council heard Administrator Mark Gordon explain that the Borough's own municipal budget would probably go to a five percent cap.

Mr. Gordon said the 1988 Borough municipal tax rate would be somewhere between 60 and 65 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. Last year's rate was 57 cents. He added that the sewer service fee will probably not change.

The $4.9 million in additional Borough ratables this year include the new Davidson's store, renovation of the Lower Pyne building and United Jersey Bank, and Firestone Court.

The Borough will pick up a heavier load of joint expenses this year because its share of such facilities as the Public Library, the Fire Department, and the Recreation Department has gone up from 36 to 39 percent. This percentage is based on the equalized value of Borough and Township property.

A discussion of the Corner House budget, which is 18 percent higher than last year, prompted Councilman Marvin Reed to suggest that all area agencies, including the schools, work together in drug education to avoid duplication of efforts.

The Public Library, which has requested a 9.9 percent increase in its budget, would like to hire an additional children's librarian to enable the children's department to remain open at night. It also wants to extend its Sunday openings through April.

The Fire Department was the only department to ask for less money than it received last year. This is because the department began an intensive effort to build up its equipment once the Shand Report pointed out the deficiencies. "A lot of money was spent," said Fire Commissioner Mark Freda. "It has pretty much leveled off now, and a great many firefighters now have OSHA-approved gear."

The total amount of the proposed 1988 joint operating budget is $2.5 million, up from $2.3 million last year, for an increase of 7.6 percent.

Planning Board Approves New Economics Building

The Planning Board unanimously approved Princeton University's proposed new building for its Economics Department and Center for International Studies last week.

However, the Board stipulated that if the number of new people working in this building and the computer science building under construction at the corner of William Street and Olden Avenue exceeds the 80 for whom the University has certified adequate on-campus parking, the University must make good its promise to build a parking garage. The University has said it will construct a parking "structure" behind the high brick wall at the corner of Olden and Prospect when any new building is undertaken in the part of the campus east of Washington Road and north of Prospect.

In last Thursday night's discussion, University officials argued that the economics and computer science buildings meet the technical requirements of the Borough's parking ordinance. That ordinance stipulates one parking space for every 500 graduate or undergraduate students, and 1.25 spaces for each member of the faculty and staff.

According to Jon Hlafter, University director of physical planning, the parking requirement for the University is 4,120 spaces, and there are 4,300 spaces in all existing lots. The people who will be working in the new building will be assigned to Lot 4, off Roper Road, he said, and those presently in Lot 4 will be assigned to a different lot in a progressive reassignment of spaces to the south.

Street Parking Instead. "The walking distances will be the same," Mr. Hlafter said, adding that the distances were about 1,200 feet. However, Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund said that graduate students do not use the lot to which they are assigned but park on neighboring residential streets, which are closer.

Mr. Hlafter acknowledged that graduate students do park on Murray Place, but said the number was 12 or 15, perhaps 25. "We're not talking about hundreds of cars," he said, "and given the fact that more than 3000 people work at the University and are parking in our lots, the system works well." Borough Councilman Marvin Reed suggested that the ordinance ought to be changed.

Frank Slimak, Borough zoning officer and director of the new Department of Community Development, reported that of the 74 cars in parking spaces along Patton Avenue, Aiken Avenue and Murray Place which he surveyed last week, 55 had Princeton University stickers. In the discussion that followed, Mayor Sigmund tried to get the University "to go ahead, bite the bullet and build that parking structure now."

Eugene McPartland, vice president for physical facilities, said that there were other ways of increasing space in existing lots. Mr. McPartland wanted the condition imposed by the Board to read that if the certified number exceeds 80, and if additional spaces cannot be found, the University will initiate a parking garage.

Scale and Set-Back. That wording did not satisfy the Planning Board, however. Chairman Margen Penick moved approval of the building, with the condition that if there are more than 80 new people working in the two new buildings, the University will "commence planning a parking garage."

There was also some discussion of the scale of the new building, which will be four stories high and contain 56,000 square feet, and the fact that it will violate the existing setback along Prospect Avenue. Duggan Kimball, professional planner for the Board, acknowledged this was an issue, but said it would be difficult to ask the University to change a design that was in such an advanced stage of engineering.

The University was chided by Board members for not having brought the plans in at an earlier stage for concept review. Mr. McPartland said the one time the University had done so had added four months to the process. "We submitted these plans in August," he said. "It is now February."

Water-runoff from new building will be channeled underground through the University's storm water system to Lake Carnegie, but the amount of this water will be compensated for in the new regional detention basin that is proposed to be located in a depressed grassy area between FitzRandolph and Broadmead north of Hartley Avenue.

Swimming Pool Next. So much time was taken in the discussion of the economics building that a discussion of the University's plans for a swimming pool complex to be built near Jadwin Gym was deferred until Thursday, February 18. The Board meets at 7:30 in the Valley Road building meeting room.

Princeton Resident Dies When Car Strikes a Tree

A 42-year-old Borough resident, driving alone, died from injuries he received last Wednesday afternoon when his car veered off Mapleton Avenue in South Brunswick Township and rammed into a tree.

Stuart B. Mindlin, of 16 Hawthorne Avenue, was pronounced dead by a physician at the scene at 3:50. An autopsy revealed that he died from loss of blood from a lacerated aorta.

Police said Mr. Mindlin apparently lost control of his car, but they have no information as to why his car left the roadway and struck the tree just off the roadway.

Members of the Kingston and Monmouth Junction volunteer fire companies who responded to the accident had to use a Jaws of Life machine to extricate Mr. Mindlin from the wreckage.

Mr. Mindlin was born on Long Island (N.Y.) and had lived in Princeton for 25 years. He was a graduate of Case Institute and the University of Michigan, where he received a master's degree in engineering. He was a self-employed consultant in software systems.

He was also a percussionist and, as a member of the Princeton University Orchestra, performed in many concerts in the area.

Surviving are his wife, Linda Kassuf Mindlin; two daughters, Jennifer and Sarah; a son, Michael; his parents, Ralph and Harriet Mindlin of Hollywood, Fla., and a brother, Rick, of Los Angeles.

The service was held at the Princeton University Chapel. Burial was private, and arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton University Orchestra, c/o Michael Pratt, Princeton University, Princeton 08544.

Short in Cord Is Blamed For Quarry Street Fire

A short in an electrical cord that, police said, actually touched the mattress it set ablaze, is listed as the cause for a fire early Tuesday morning in a second-floor bedroom on Quarry Street.

Patrolmen Ken Lozier and Victor Fasanella and Officer Lori Sannella responded to a report of a house fire. On arrival, they detected smoke on the northeast side and called for a general alarm at 2:50.

Entering the bedroom, police found a portion of rug burning and the mattress and boxspring ablaze. Police extinguished the flames and were removing the smoldering bedding when five fire trucks and 19 firemen arrived to take over. Firemen used fans to vent the smoke-filled interior.

No one was injured. "We were lucky," observed Police Chief Michael Carnevale.

There were two car fires in the Borough last week.

Chief Carnevale saw smoke coming from under the front end of a car parked on Mercer Street opposite Speer Library and drove to the call box at Mercer Extension and University Place to sound a 7:15 p.m. alarm. There was quick response, he said, from a patrol car and two fire trucks.

The cause of the fire is not known but the front engine compartment was completely destroyed by the flames and heat.

The car, a new 1987 Toyota owned by a Hopewell resident, reportedly had less than 500 miles on the odometer. It had to be towed to Larini's Service Repair on Alexander Street.

Earlier in the week, police and firemen responded to a call on Witherspoon Street, where the transmission of a 1979 Ford Mustang was burning and emitting excessive smoke. That car, owned by a Princeton resident, also had to be towed after the fire had been extinguished.

Mattress Fire in Township. There was a mattress fire in the Township early Saturday morning that was actually two fires.

Daniel Black of 234 N. Harrison Street, told police he had gone to bed and was awakened at 2:30 by the odor of smoke. He had fallen asleep while smoking in bed, he said. He poured several glasses of water on a small smoldering hole in the mattress and, thinking it was out, went back to sleep on a sofa.

At 4:40, Mr. Black was awakened again when he discovered the entire house filled with smoke. Mr. Black was able to throw the still burning mattress out a rear door and called the fire department at 5:12. Firemen responded, extinguished the mattress completely, checked the house and reported smoke but no structural damage.

Mr. Black was treated at Princeton Medical Center for minor burns and smoke inhalation.

Early in the week, a fire call was sounded for a kitchen fire at the home of Lawrence Clausen, 401 Ewing Street.

Lt. David Potts reported that the ground wire of a kitchen range had shorted out, scorching the wall and floor joists. Five pieces of fire apparatus and 23 firemen responded. They report some smoke damage but no structural damage.

Borough Merchants Meet, Plan Upcoming Agenda

The new organization of central business district merchants and businessmen, Borough Merchants for Princeton, met Monday night to discuss future plans. One of the first orders of business was to set a membership fee. It is $150 a year, no matter what the size of the store or firm.

Mitchell Forest of Forest Jewelers, the group's president, said members want to bring up many matters with Borough Council. They would like to see the meters changed to two-hour ones; take another look at the proposed Spring Street garage; find out if some street parking permits for employees could be issued; and see if the Borough could get a computer to keep track of multiple parking offenders. This, he said, might help spot meter feeders.

The group also named a parking committee, consisting of Henry Gross of H. Gross & Co.; Ray Wadsworth of Wadsworth's and The Flower Basket; Jackie Alford of Long Tall Sally, and Petie Duncan of Palmer Square.

Mr. Forest said a number of merchants were enthusiastic about opening on Sundays, particularly after they heard Mr. Gross extoll the advantages. The Palmer Square merchant said that most of the people in the central business district on Sundays were from out of town — and that most were buyers, not browsers.

The group is now considering running an advertising program in metropolitan areas encouraging people to shop in Princeton.

The subject of the Fire Department's upcoming Bicentennial Celebration also came up. Nassau Street will be closed to traffic for several hours, and Mr. Forest said that the merchants want to make it a successful day, "almost a Communiversity." He has asked Councilman Mark Freda to ask Council to ban outside vendors from coming in.

Borough Merchants for Princeton will meet next at 6 p.m. on Monday, February 22, at the Chambers Street Firehouse.

Walk-In Freezer Looted In University Building

Between 12:15 and 6:15 last Wednesday morning, someone forced a door to enter the kitchen area of Stevenson Hall, 83 Prospect Avenue. From there, the intruder entered an unlocked walk-in freezer and removed a meat roast, ground beef, American cheese, tuna fish and herring worth $99.78 before exiting the University-owned building by way of a boiler room.

Early the previous morning, a thief climbed atop a second floor roof on the north side of the Nassau Inn to reach a bathroom window. He then broke a pane of glass to gain access to bathroom and once inside took a color television set from an adjoining room. Police report the suspect fled by climbing out the same window.

Robbery and Assault At Pizza Escort Site

A robbery and aggravated assault took place early Tuesday morning at the Pizza Escort, 146 Witherspoon Street.

The victim, a lone 18-year-old employee, called police at 12:05 and told them a man had entered the front door and said,

"Hello. How are you doing? May I have..." and with that he hurled a rock at the employee, striking him in the left shoulder and causing him to fall to the floor. The suspect then reached into the cash drawer and escaped with $124.

Sgt. William Clark, Det. Ralph Terracciano, Ptl. Ken Lozier and Officer Lori Sannella responded, got a description of the suspect and put out an alarm. A short time later, two Township patrolmen observed two suspects at the corner of John and Clay streets and detained them until the arrival of Borough police, who transported them to headquarters.

An investigation that continued through the early morning hours resulted in charges of robbery and assault against Paris Daniels, 23, of Lytle Street, and William Brown, 24, of Clay Street. Police identified Daniels as the suspect who entered the building. Further investigation, Chief Michael Carnevale said, revealed that Brown was an accomplice and participated in the robbery.

The two were held in Borough jail and were scheduled to be arraigned Tuesday afternoon before Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. Chief Carnevale reported that part of the $124 has been recovered by police.

The victim, who sustained an abrasion on his shoulder, did not require any medical attention.

Two $545 Coats Stolen From H. Gross Store

Two women's tan Burberry trench coats, valued at $545 each, were shoplifted Friday afternoon from H. Gross, One Palmer Square.

An employee told police that she saw a well-built, white male with black hair wearing a green army jacket grab the coats and run to a waiting car parked on Palmer Square East. The car, described as a red Chevrolet Sprint, then sped north on Palmer Square.

There were two thefts Saturday at the Tower Club on Prospect Avenue. A student's 35 mm Ricoh camera was taken between 3:15 and 3:30 in the morning from a table in the first-floor foyer area where the victim had left it wrapped in a plastic bag to go downstairs to play a video game. The victim recovered the bag, which was lying on the sidewalk in front of the club, minus the camera.

Another student lost $15 and credit cards when his wallet was removed from a pocket of his coat which he had left during the evening in a coat room of the club.

Taken from the unlocked van of a band hired to perform Saturday night at the Cloister Inn were a CB radio valued at $400 and a fifth of gin. The band from Georgia, appropriately named "Stab in the Back," Chief Michael Carnevale reported, was playing at the Inn from 9:30 to 12:30 when the theft took place.

A University student who had parked her golf cart in front of Cloister Inn discovered it missing when she returned at 1 Sunday morning. It was recovered at 4 a.m. by University security in front of Prospect House on campus. Police said the keys had been left in the ignition.

A Princeton resident parked his car late Saturday night in a Nassau Street lot near Pine Street to get a take-out item from a nearby restaurant. Returning, he discovered the right rear window had been broken and a cassette valued at $15 removed from the car.

A double parking meter head was removed overnight last week from its post on lower University Place near the train station. Police listed its value as $400. The theft was reported by John Jackson, the Borough's meter department supervisor.

Drunk Driving Charged Against Browns Mills Man

A Browns Mills resident, Carlos Villafane, 27, has been charged by Township Ptl. David Leiggi with driving while intoxicated, refusal to take a breath test and careless driving.

Mr. Villafane was observed at 1:28 Thursday morning crossing a double yellow line and almost striking a Bridge Out sign on S. Harrison Street. When the officer, after stopping the car, detected an odor of alcohol, he gave Mr. Villafane balance and coordination tests at the scene.

As a result of those tests, Mr. Villafane was arrested and taken to police headquarters where he refused a Breathalyzer test. At an initial appearance in Township Court this week, Mr. Villafane's hearing was postponed until he can obtain a lawyer.

Place and Witherspoon Street, a number of things happened.

The car jumped the curb, struck a Borough street sign, sheared a traffic light standard off at its base and came to rest against a telephone utility pole, causing it to lean 75 degrees. Mr. Salkind was uninjured but was issued a summons for careless driving by Ptl. Edward Sullivan.

Mr. Salkind told police he had swerved to avoid hitting a white car coming in the opposite direction that was making a left turn in front of him and was a third of the way into the intersection.

The Borough was notified about repairing its street sign, the Bell Telephone company about its pole and the State Department of Transportation about its leveled traffic signal.

Albert Tata Jr., owner of the building at 74 Witherspoon Street, reported damage to his building. The movement of the telephone pole, he said, had pulled wires loose from where they were connected to the building.

DWI Charges Draw Fine And 10-Year Revocation

Richard B. Middleton, 51 Red Hill Road, will not be driving for some time.

In Borough traffic court Monday, Mr. Middleton had his license revoked for ten years and was fined a total of $1,115 for driving while intoxicated. A second offense of operating while his license was suspended cost him an additional $1,015 and loss of his license for another year.

Three people were fined $75 each for careless driving: Carlos Castron, 274 Witherspoon Street; Garfield A. Brown, 175 Birch Avenue, and Constance P. Harendza Hari, 50 Merion Place, Lawrence Township. Peter Orszag, 223 Joline Hall, Princeton University, paid $60 for speeding.

Steven Kohms, 1600 Princeton Avenue, Lawrence Township, was fined $515 for driving while his license was revoked and $20 for an overdue inspection violation. Also fined $20 each were Donald R. Lazare of Kingston, failure to make inspection repairs, and Eric M. Weisbard, 124 Pyne Hall, Princeton University, no license or registration in possession.

In Township court last week, Paul D. Cochrane, 12 Nassau Street, was fined $265 and lost his license for six months for no insurance. He paid an additional $60 for unregistered vehicle.

Two Princeton University students, Richard C. Emery and Gary D. Kempinski, both of 325 1942 Hall, were each fined $125 and $30 to the Violent Crime Compensation Board for trying to obtain alcohol under age in a Township tavern. Under a new law, Emery had his driver's license suspended for six months and Kempinski lost his driving privileges in New Jersey for six months.

Ella Kidd, 11 Shirley Court, was fined $125 and $30 VCCB for passing a bad check. She was also ordered to make restitution of $58.30 to Taylor Rental on State Road and pay $20 to cover the cost of returning a bad check twice.

Construction This Fall For New Train Station

Construction is expected to begin this fall on a new train station at the Princeton Park Corporate Center on Route 1. The $7.5 million station, plus a 2,000-car parking lot, will be built with the cooperation of NJ Transit, South Brunswick Township and two developers, the Seltzer Organization and Sam Rieder and Sons, according to officials of Seltzer.

Joseph Romano, executive vice president of the Seltzer Organization, said a study done about a year ago showed 25,000 to 30,000 residential units were being built within a ten-mile radius of the station. He added that 90 percent of all NJ Transit runs along that section of the track are expected to stop at the Princeton Park station, which will also serve Amtrak's Northeast Corridor line.

No completion date has been announced.

Flight Service Announced From Princeton to JFK

Princeton Air Link (PAL), the scheduled airline based at Princeton Airport, will offer direct non-stop passenger service between Princeton Airport and New York's John F. Kennedy International Airport. The company believes its new service will provide a convenient, quick and inexpensive link from central New Jersey and eastern Bucks County to JFK, the largest international gateway in the United States.

Starting in late February, the company will operate four round-trip flights a day. Each flight will be scheduled to coordinate with the most popular overseas connections to and from Kennedy. Air time will be 25 minutes, with a total scheduled gate time of 35 to 40 minutes, depending on air traffic volume around Kennedy. Officials at PAL said that the total time gate-to-gate should be one third the time required to reach Kennedy by car.

PAL flies twin-engine Islander aircraft. The aircraft contain the latest in electronic instrumentation, including weather radar. Every flight is flown by two experienced pilots.

PAL is developing cooperative fares with major airlines at Kennedy so that passengers will pay only a nominal charge when they connect with one of the cooperating carriers. Even for a passenger connecting to or from airlines which do not participate in the cooperative fares, the cost at $89 is less expensive than a rental car or limo, according to PAL. Free parking is provided at Princeton Airport.

Later in the spring, PAL plans to start non-stop service between Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton Airport and Kennedy and between Morristown Airport and Kennedy.

For further information, contact Princeton Air Link at 924-5100.

Freeholders to Decide On Bliss Appointment

The Mercer County Board of Freeholders was expected to decide late Wednesday, February 10, whether to appoint Township resident and former Borough attorney Walter Bliss to the seat vacated by Anthony "Skip" Cimino.

Mr. Bliss was interviewed by the Board on Tuesday afternoon. He said he "enjoyed the give and take, and was happy to have the exchange."

Although the three Republican freeholders have announced they are undecided about Mr. Bliss, they are expected to approve his selection. The Republicans rejected a previous Democratic candidate, Irwin S. Stoolmacher, two weeks ago. They must appoint a successor to Mr. Cimino by Thursday, or this seventh seat on the board of freeholders will stay empty until the November election. This would deadlock the freeholder board at three Democrats and three Republicans for most of the rest of the year.

County Executive Bill Mathesius, a Republican, has been vocal in his rejection of Mr. Bliss, although they were on the same side in the Borough's suit against Route 1 development.

The Republicans have also labelled as "illegitimate" the Saturday Mercer County Democratic Party convention, which gave near-unanimous support to Mr. Bliss. They are protesting receiving the name of only one nominee from the Democrats.

Republican Freeholder Peter Inverso said he had no doubt that the convention was carefully crafted and orchestrated.

Casino Night at Marriott To Benefit Heart Group

The fourth annual "Ace of Hearts" casino night, to benefit the American Heart Association, will be held at 8 p.m. on Saturday at the Princeton Marriott Hotel in Forrestal Village.

The event will feature casino "gambling," dancing, celebrity dealers, a lavish buffet, and a silent auction.

Individual tickets and corporate table sponsorships may be ordered by calling the Greater Princeton Unit of the American Heart Association at 734-9367.

'Bizarre' Fitzgerald Story Will Be Published Soon

"A Full Life," a bizarre and previously unknown short story by F. Scott Fitzgerald, will be published for the first time in the winter 1988 issue of the Princeton University Library Chronicle, appearing February 15.

In the story, Fitzgerald quite literally packs his heroine full of dynamite — and then proceeds to detonate her. "A Full Life" was apparently written as a private gesture by Fitzgerald, who had grown weary of manufacturing romantic formula fiction about glamorous, spoiled young women.

The only surviving draft of the story, which was written in 1937 while Fitzgerald was in North Carolina and his wife Zelda was in a mental hospital, is in the Fitzgerald papers at Princeton University. Fitzgerald was a student at Princeton from 1913 until he left during his fourth year for Officers Training Camp in 1917.

An article by James L. W. West III accompanies the story in the Library Chronicle, a scholarly journal that publishes articles based on research conducted in the Department of Rare Books and Special Collections at Princeton's Firestone Library.

Dr. West, who is professor of English and director of graduate studies at Pennsylvania State University, discovered the story ten years ago when he was working on a book about Fitzgerald's first novel, This Side of Paradise. "The story was in an adjunct section of the Fitzgerald papers," Dr. West said. "It was among the Marie Shank additions to the archive. Marie Shank was Fitzgerald's secretary in 1937 when he wrote the story, and she saved the draft. It came to Princeton after the bulk of the Fitzgerald collection had been catalogued.

"I found the story through pure serendipity. I had finished the work for my book and had some time left over, so I looked through the shelf list. I noticed this short story and asked to see it. Its title rang a bell in my mind. I had seen the title mentioned in some correspondence between Fitzgerald and his agent."

Prof. West could not decide what to do with the story. "I thought about it," he said, "and did some research on it. Finally, I decided that it should be published. Fortunately, Fitzgerald's literary executors agreed."

Prof. West finds it surprising that no one else stumbled on the story. "The Fitzgerald archive is one of the most thoroughly picked-over collections in the country," he said. "Only the Faulkner archive at Virginia is as heavily used. But there are treasures and curiosities hidden in all big collections. I was lucky enough to find this one at Princeton."

Fitzgerald was living in a hotel in Tryon, N.C., when he wrote the story. He was attempting to write himself out of debt to his publisher and his literary agent. By 1937, though, he had lost the knack of writing for the magazines and his stories were not selling.

One of the problems, says Prof. West, was that Fitzgerald was no longer able to write convincingly about a character who had always appeared in his stories — the Fitzgerald heroine. Young, beautiful, willfully independent, and often modeled on his wife, this character had become a kind of trademark for Fitzgerald. But by 1937 he was weary of her.

Fitzgerald sent the first draft of "A Full Life," then titled "The Vanished Girl," to Harold Ober, his agent, in March, 1937. Ober submitted it to Redbook and, when it was rejected, sent it back to Fitzgerald with suggestions for revision. Fitzgerald ignored Ober's suggestions, rewrote the story in such a way as to fill his heroine with explosives, and blew her up.

In this surviving second draft, the heroine, Gwen Davies, jumps from the 53rd story of a New York skyscraper in an inflated rubber flying suit — and survives. In subsequent episodes, she marries and divorces an heir to a gunpowder manufacturing fortune and then jumps from the deck of an ocean liner and is rescued. Finally, while working as a human cannonball, she explodes, in a fit of pique.

"Blowing up Gwen seems to have been a private gesture for Fitzgerald," says Prof. West. "The surviving draft of 'A Full Life' tells us that for him, his heroine was dead long before he detonated her."

Weekend Antiques Show Will Help Womanspace

The Lawrenceville/Mercer County Antiques Show will be held Saturday from 11 to 8 and Sunday from 11 to 5 at the National Guard Armory in Lawrenceville. The show will benefit Womanspace, Inc., a nonprofit organization serving victims of domestic violence in Mercer County.

Fifty dealers from six states will offer country and formal furniture, paintings, folk art, textiles, glass, jewelry and accessories.

Admission to the show is $3.50. The Armory is located at 151 Eggerts Crossing Road.

Land and Water Photos Sought For Contest

The Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association has announced details for its fourth annual nature photography contest. The contest is open to any amateur photographer, and awards will be offered in each of several categories.

There are separate categories for color and for black and white photographs on land and on water. There is also a category for photographers under age 17.

The entry deadline is March 25. Photographs will only be accepted during the month of March before the deadline. Winning photographs will be displayed at a special show sometime in April.

For further details and an entry form, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association, RD1 Box 263A, Pennington 08534.

Readings Over Coffee At the Public Library

Readings Over Coffee with Herbert McAneny will take place Wednesday, February 17, at 10:30 at the Public Library. Mr. McAneny will read selections from Frank and Maisie by Wilfrid Sheed.

A contemporary writer, Mr. Sheed describes growing up with his parents, Frank Sheed, a working-class Australian, and Maisie Ward, scion of English Catholic gentry. All are welcome to the reading.

Valentine Sleigh Rides At Living History Farm

Couples who visit Howell Living History Farm on Saturday can snuggle into a horse drawn sleigh or buggy and capture the romance of Valentine's Day. Rides in the farm's turn-of-the-century two-seater sleigh are for married or courting couples only. They will be offered from 10 until 3 on a first-come basis.

Children will have the opportunity to make Valentine cards in the farmhouse and can also enjoy sledding or snow sculpting. There is a 50 cent materials fee for the craft program.

Reading Animal Tracks Program for Children

The Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association invites children ages seven to ten to learn how to read animal tracks and trails at a program on Saturday from 10 to noon.

The program will be conducted both outdoors and inside. Even without snow, children can find clues to how animals live. Indoors, they will create their own stories with animal track prints.

Participants should dress warmly and meet at the Watershed headquarters on Titus Mill Road, Hopewell Township. Registration is required and there is a $5 fee for members, $10 for nonmembers. To register or for more information, call the Watershed Association at 737-3735.

School Readiness Is Topic Of Discussion at Waldorf

The Waldorf School will sponsor a talk on "Signs of School Readiness: A Waldorf Perspective" Sunday at 8 at the Waldorf Nursery-Kindergarten, 285 Rosedale Road.

Joan Almon, a Waldorf nursery-kindergarten teacher in Silver Springs, Md., will describe activities of the Waldorf kindergarten. She will show what in a child's imaginative play, drawings and growing physical form indicate that the child is ready for the learning of the Waldorf grades or grade school in general. She will also address topics such as computers in kindergarten, the "hurried child," and summer birthdays.

Ms. Almon is co-founder of the National Waldorf Kindergarten Association. For information call 466-3578.

Treasure Hunt Winners Named by Arts Council

Edith Roberts, Annette Miller, Becky Hersch and Sonia Johansen correctly identified all 12 puzzles in a treasure hunting experience during Curtain Calls '87, the town-wide New Year's Eve celebration sponsored by the Arts Council. They will receive ice cream gift certificates from the Arts Council.

According to Angela Coin and Gregor Clark, Princeton High school representatives to the Arts Council who were the treasure hunt creators, there was a simpler, poetic version, and another, more difficult

CHILD'S PLAY: The Waldorf School will sponsor a talk on "Signs of School Readiness: A Waldorf Perspective" Sunday at 8 at 285 Rosedale Road, in which children's play is discussed as one of the signs. Free Classes Planned On Weight Loss Problems

The YMCA will offer three free classes on topics related to weight control.

The first class is titled "Weight Control" and will be held Thursday, February 18, at 7 in the library of the YMWCA. On Thursday, March 17, the topic is "The Spot Reduction Myth." The final class, Thursday, April 21, is on nutrition principles.

For information and to reserve a place call 497-YMCA.

Professor Leaves Bequest For Graduate Fellowship

A $3.8 million bequest will be used to create graduate fellowships within Princeton University's Department of Romance Languages and Literatures.

The gift from the estate of Emeritus Professor Alfred L. Foulet will serve to establish the Edward C. Armstrong Fund. The income from this fund will be used to create fellowships at the graduate level, preferably for students of medieval Romance languages and literatures.

Dr. Foulet, professor of Romance languages and literatures, taught at Princeton from 1927, when he earned his Ph.D. at the University, until he retired in 1966. He spent his career in research and editing medieval French texts. Before his death in April, 1987, Prof. Foulet and Karl D. Uitti, John N. Woodhull Professor of Modern Languages, had been working to produce the most accurate and authentic version possible of Chretien de Troyes' Lancelot.

Prof. Foulet was perhaps best known as co-editor of a seven-volume critical edition of the 12th-century Roman d'Alexandre, a bridge between epic and romance and one of the most influential works written in Old French. His collaborator in that effort was the late Edward C. Armstrong, for whom the new fund is named. Armstrong was Foulet's teacher when he was a graduate student.

SCHOOL HIGHLIGHTS

Princeton High School

Nicholas Darnton, Eric Pitt, Amende Schivell and Serena Volpp were finalists in the Philadelphia Science Council competition held at Saint Joseph's University. They are eligible to participate in the interview process to determine the Council's final selection of award winners to be announced in March.

Twenty PHS students have been cited as Garden State Distinguished Scholars and are eligible for $1000 scholarships to attend colleges in New Jersey. The scholars are: Victor Bascara, Christopher Berkner, Jeffrey Chen, Angela Coin, Robert Crespi, Amie Fishman, Evan Frisch, Jennifer Kim, Andrew Lee, Gerald Lenaz, Felicia Lewis, Lester Liu, Heather McDonald, Joni Owen, Yagnesh Patel, Katherine Perkins, Robert Perle, Amanda Schivell, Serena Volpp and Kevin White.

The Mercer County Special Services School District has recognized Shara Porter, Rebecca Etz, and Paul Kaplan for serving as puppeteers for the Kids on the Block project. Dr. Ronald Horowitz, Director of the Learning in the Community Program, trained the students for the project.

At the Second Urban-Suburban Peer Leadership Conference, Liz Leong, Kerry Espenshade, Darius Young, Charles Kirby and Silvan Nazario presented their ideas on student leadership.

David Edwards, Megan Weeder, Esther Hamori, Sebastian Frede, Joni Owen and Michele Benet, members of a string quartet and flute ensemble, under the direction of Gail Edwards, performed for the Women's Association of the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church.

"The Tower," the PHS newspaper, moderated by Suzanne Goida, has a new staff: Josh Harlan is Editor-in-Chief; Adam Deaton and Charles Bush, Managing Editors.

The students of Constance Embley visited KYW-TV in Philadelphia. They enjoyed a tour of the studio, the newsroom, the radio station, and were in the audience for the "Time Out with Bill Boggs" show.

From February 4 to 25, Bernard Poncin will accompany eight PHS students to Arcachon, France. The students, who will attend school and stay with French families are: Judy Crespi, Rebecca Dixon, Beth Heidere, Cynthia Jacobs, Christopher Kagay, Fenlon Lamb, Marthe Parsons and Kathy Perkins. From March 26 to April 15, the Arcachonnais will visit Princeton.

Princeton High School participated for the first time in the Mercer County section of the New Jersey State Bar Association's Mock Trial Competition. The eight "lawyers" and "witnesses" were Evan Frisch, Allison Rohrer, Asim Matin, Aurora Bearse, Cyndy Stovall, Sarah Gall, Kerry Welker and Behar Azmy. History teacher Ethel Wood was advisor and the attorney-advisor was Charles Daley of Mason, Griffin & Pearson.

session will begin February 29 and will offer more than 100 courses, single-night programs, and trips. Mail-in registration has begun, and walk-in registration will be held on Wednesday and Thursday, February 17 and 18, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at West Windsor-Plainsboro High School, Clarksville Road.

Vocational skills can be improved with courses in word processing, personal business computers, Lotus 1-2-3, accounting, BASIC, shorthand, real estate, and more.

English as a Second Language and G.E.D. prep classes will meet on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. March 15 is the starting date for S.A.T. review classes. As these classes fill quickly, early registration is suggested.

New courses this session include bird carving, jewelry making without solder, learning to draw, better pasta and best sauces, and cakes for all occasions.

Trips for spring include the Philadelphia Flower Show, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Bronx Zoo, a World Yacht cruise and the Forbes Museum.

Forty-Plus and Single and Mid-Life: Opportunity for Growth are two new courses. Peer Support for Relocated Women will continue, as well as a grief and loss course and a pregnancy discussion group.

Many different exercise and dance classes are offered, including "A Better Body," aerobic exercise and dance, ballet for fitness, ballroom dancing, Country Western dancing, "Back to Basics," "Exercise in the Slow Lane," Jazzercise, Kung Fu, and Yoga. Persons can also learn to ride a horse, go whitewater rafting or enjoy a mountain bike trek.

Foreign language courses include Japanese, Chinese I and II, and French.

Call the community education office at 452-2185 for information about the spring session, or to register.

Lyme Disease Incidents Rise in Mercer County

The number of confirmed cases of Lyme disease in Mercer County jumped from four in 1985 to 20 in 1986, according to a report from the New Jersey Department of Health. The disease, carried by deer ticks, is most prevalent in the lower two-thirds of the State.

Based on 328 cases of Lyme disease reported throughout New Jersey between 1978 and 1986 — where a specific county was named — Mercer's numbers rose sharply. Between 1978 and 1982, only two cases were reported in the County.

According to material furnished by the Health Department, Lyme disease is difficult to diagnose. However, swift recognition and treatment can prevent later problems.

Enrollment Available For U-Now Day Nursery

University-N.O.W. Day Nursery, 171 Broadmead, is currently enrolling for September.

The nursery provides a full-day, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., year-round learning program in which children from 22 months through kindergarten can experience, explore and develop.

Smoke No More Program At The Medical Center

Smoke No More, an eight-part smoking cessation program, will begin Tuesday at 5 at Princeton Medical Center.

Smoke No More is a behavioral modification program led by former smokers. The emphasis in this approach is positive reinforcement and support in efforts to stop smoking. The fee for the course is $50.

To register, call Corporate Health Services at Princeton Medical Center, 734-4647.

First Aid Squad Answers 1314 Calls for 1987 Year

During 1987 the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad's vehicles and crews were called upon for service 1,314 times. The squad responded to 1,146 emergencies, 81 transports, 34 fire calls (July to December) as well as attending drills, stand-bys and parades.

The squad responded in the Borough to 661 calls, in the Township, 626, and assisted neighboring squads and communities 27 times. The Princeton squad's two paid emergency medical technicians work Monday through Friday as a day crew and responded to approximately one-third of the year's emergency calls. However, 2,356 hours were expended solely on volunteer service, in addition to countless hours also volunteered to provide continual coverage on nights,

Plasma Physics Lab Tour

The Princeton University Plasma Physics Laboratory, one of the world's leading centers of fusion energy research, will offer tours of its facilities on Tuesday at 7 p.m. The public is invited. A short presentation on the laboratory's research program will be followed by a tour of the Tokamak fusion test reactor led by PPPL scientists and engineers.

Tour reservations are necessary and may be made by calling Pat Stephens at 243-2750. The laboratory is located on the James Forrestal Campus on Route 1 in Plainsboro.

The Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory was established in 1951 to develop magnetic fusion as a safe and inexhaustible energy source for the future. It is funded by the U.S. Department of Energy.

weekends, and holidays. Some of these hours were spent attending meetings and additional education and training sessions.

Several volunteers give many more hours above and beyond the call of duty, and one young man, Bill Foster, responded to 602 calls — a record in the squad's history.

Ed Obert was re-elected captain. Other 1988 officers are: president, Dave Cromwell; vice-president, Mary Lott; treasurer, Dave Thickens; secretary, B. J. Waterman; lieutenants, Bill Foster and Mike Bonotto; head driver, Joe Dermen; chaplain and head trustee, Rose Haskins; trustees, Josh Yamamoto and Jim Smart; members at large, Maryanne Henderson and Sandy Sussman; first aid council delegates, Rose Haskins, Mary Lott and MaryAnne Henderson; alternates, Bill Foster, Ed Obert and Josh Yamamoto.

Pre-Kindergarten Class Set by Nursery School

The Presbyterian Cooperative Nursery School is planning to offer a pre-kindergarten class for five-year-olds for the 1988-89 school year in the Nassau Presbyterian Church.

The class would be offered four days a week from 9:30 to 1 with lunchtime included.

The intent is to offer a pre-academic class for those five-year-olds who do not meet the school cut-off dates for fall registration and for those children parents don't feel need a full-day class five days a week.

Presbyterian Cooperative Nursery School offers scholarship funds for those in need and welcomes questions regarding tuition, program and enrollment.

For further information call Sue Cook at 896-3414 or Donna Nagy at 921-8746.

Students Will Compete In Regional Math Contest

Seventh- and eighth-grade students from area public and private schools will compete Saturday, February 27, in the regional contests of the national Mathcounts program at Mercer County Community College, Trenton.

Participating schools include Princeton Day School, Stuart Country Day School, Timberlane Junior School, West Windsor-Plainsboro High School and Montgomery High School. The students will compete against one another and will be tested on such topics as probability, statistics, linear algebra and polynomials. The program consists of written tests and fast-paced oral matches.

The winners will receive trophies and will advance to the Mathcounts finals, to be held at Princeton University on March 19. Mathcounts is a nationwide program designed to answer the problem of declining math skills among students at the precollege level. The regional contest has been organized by the Mercer chapter of the New Jersey Society of Professional Engineers.

Plans Are Announced For June Hospital Fete

Organizational plans for the 1988 June Fete, a one-day fundraising event to benefit the Princeton Medical Center, have been announced by co-chairmen Anne Borella and Susan Spaeth. "A Country Fete" is the theme for the June 11 event.

Located off Washington Road on the University fields, fete attractions include the popular auction, children's area, gourmet foods, and many other features. The Friday night dinner-dance will begin the festivities on June 10, and the 10-K race will start the day early on Saturday morning.

The fete is dedicated this year to West Windsor's Police Chief Frank Cox and Fire Marshall Jim Yates, and their staffs. Their skill and dedication to safety have kept the fete a place to enjoy a day of fun.

Artist for this year's fete is Rosalie Puzio, who has designed the logo for the posters and T-shirts. Assisting Rosalie is Jane Yeurokis. Connie Frazee will serve as secretary, and co-treasurers will be Pamela Abernathy and Lin duBouis.

The auction area will be chaired by Mona Fisher and Eva Schwab. Rosalie Corsano, Jane Poole and Ellen Souter are responsible for auction solicitation. Anyone with items to donate may call 874-7640, 924-2271, or 924-3105 for information. Margaret Cruikshank and Cookie Leaper will serve as auction consultants.

Treasure Aisle co-chairmen are Bernice Frank and Julie Chytrowski. Donations to this area may be made by calling 924-3829 or (201) 874-5014.

Chairmen of the car raffle are Anne Ciali and Roberta Smith. This year's prize will be a fully-equipped Jeep, which will be on display at Palmer Square and other locations in the early spring.

Chairmen of the other committees are, children's, Claudia Pew and Denise Stovall; communications, Linda Brophy and Carole Lemmon; dance, Chris Andrews, Judy Hill, and Phyllis Martinez; decorating and signs, Joan Karsay and Diane Spalding; entertainment, Anne Biesidecki and Jinny Baekler; food, Carrie Schmierer and Pam Schmierer; garden, Basil Robinson and Bonnie Stalford; lane of shops, Lee Reimann and Barbara Myers.

Also, linens, tables and chairs, Caroline Angrisani and Lindsey Fraser; parking and security, Michael Opachinski; photography and publicity, Adrienne Belli, Marcie Boucher, and Linda Leyhane; program, Mary Graves and Kathleen Harrison; program solicitation, Heather Herman and Nora Orphanides; sports in a building that was moved from across the street. The latter is in the east end of town, and thus not subject to the ordinance.

The bank that might be affected is Cenlar, which has announced plans to move into Hult's shoe store when Hult's moves next door into the former Nassau Hobby Shop. Cenlar has not yet filed an application with the Borough Zoning Board of Adjustment.

At a Tuesday afternoon press conference, Mayor Sigmund said that any applications after this point [the introduction of the ordinance] fall into a different status from those already approved. She added that Cenlar would face other problems in its application, including parking.

The Mayor said the ordinance was being introduced "to retain vitality in downtown Princeton, which has resulted from a couple of centuries of mixed uses. It is not meant to convey any displeasure in the present situation."

Borough's Right. Councilman John Huntoon said he had spoken informally with an attorney for the State Zoning Board, who told him that, if done properly, it was the Borough's right to pass such an ordinance.

Mr. Huntoon added that he had told the people at Cenlar about the ordinance and said, "If you want to act, act now in great haste and get the application in."

"Why they didn't I don't know," he said.

The Mayor said the ordinance was in the tradition of the Borough's own land use ordinances. "I am more concerned about that than about any precedent in other towns and other states," she said.

Mr. Huntoon suggested that the scope of the ordinance might be enlarged at a later date to include other parts of town, notably the east end. The mayor nodded in agreement.

The ordinance allows for two office-use exceptions. These are newspaper reporting and distribution activities open to the general public, and non-profit philanthropic agencies providing services to the community.

Once introduced, the ordinance must go to the Planning Board for approval. It would then return to Council for a final reading and vote. "This would be voted on two weeks from now," said the Mayor. "But because it has to go to the Planning Board, it might take longer."

Amnesty International 'Write-a-Thon' Planned

Amnesty International groups from throughout the central New Jersey area will hold a "Write-a-Thon" for human rights on Saturday, February 27. The theme of this event, which will take place in the rotunda of the Princeton University Student Center from 1 to 4:30 p.m., is "Write a letter, save a life." During the afternoon, it is hoped that more than 1000 letters and postcards will be written on behalf of prisoners of conscience around the world.

The public is invited to attend the "Write-a-Thon" and find out how easy it is to write a letter which could help to free an innocent person from imprisonment or torture. The event is the scope of the ordinance might be enlarged at a later date to include other parts of town, notably the east end. The mayor nodded in agreement.

ment or torture. The event is the scope of the ordinance might be enlarged at a later date to include other parts of town, notably the east end. The mayor nodded in agreement.

Since 1961, the organization has used letters to help more than 25,000 people worldwide win their freedom and their lawful rights. In 1977, this independent, international human rights movement was awarded the Nobel Prize for its work.

Area groups sponsoring the "Write-a-Thon" include Princeton Group 67, New Brunswick Group 349, and student groups from Princeton Day School, Princeton High School, Princeton University, Rutgers University and Trenton State College.

For further information, call Barbara Baxter at 683-1782 (evenings) or David Hughes at 734-7714.

Open House Is Planned By Montessori School

Princeton Montessori School invites parents to an open house on Sunday, February 21, from 2:30 to 4 p.m. at 487 Cherry Valley Road.

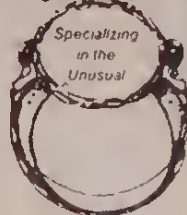

There will be a brief presentation at 3 and tours of the classrooms by the teaching staff. Princeton Montessori School offers programs for children ages 18 months through grade six. Teachers and current parents will be available to answer any questions.

Princeton's President Underlines Gravity Of Alcohol Abuse Situation on Campus

I was shocked and distressed by the abuse of alcohol that took place among Princeton undergraduates this past weekend. The fact that this apparently was not an unprecedented occurrence only underscores the seriousness of the situation and the importance of students and University officials jointly developing whatever initiatives may be necessary to prevent similar occurrences in the future.

Excessive consumption of alcohol — and circumstances that encourage such consumption — threaten the health and well-being of our students and clearly constitute unacceptable behavior. We expect our students to take responsibility for their actions in a mature and adult fashion. There are also steps the clubs and the University can and should take. There is, however, no substitute for the exercise of good judgment by individuals.

In a conversation this morning with the chairman of the Graduate Interclub Council, I was assured that the clubs appreciate their responsibilities for providing adequate supervision within their facilities and for compliance with appropriate standards of behavior. I also hope that the clubs will seriously consider ways in which they can contribute to a campus environment in which behavior such as took place this past weekend not only is not encouraged, but is actively deplored and recognized as clearly unacceptable.

I am pleased that the undergraduate club presidents have taken the initiative in scheduling discussions about ways to address these concerns, and I hope that those discussions can proceed with an appropriate degree of urgency.

The University has tried to be helpful through the resources of the Dean of Students' office, the University Health Services, and the new alcohol counselor, and there may be more that the University can do, in cooperation with individual students and the clubs. We dare not wait for lives to be lost before giving this question the priority it deserves.

Drinking

that the drinking had taken place at a private club. "They are adults between 18 and 21 and the law permits adults to drink in a private club. We can't, legally, enforce the drinking laws."

When asked at his press conference Tuesday by a reporter from Channel 10 news if the University was concerned with the problem of student drinking, Chief Carnevale replied the University was very concerned. "They have an ongoing program."

"Am I concerned? I've been concerned with abuse of alcohol for 32 years. When people were so concerned about drugs I had to remind them we had a dual problem — alcohol and drugs. Now, after so many years, people are realizing it is a dual problem."

There is alcohol abuse, Chief Carnevale continued. And it is not confined to college students. "It is not uncommon for us to have to respond to a situation where teenagers are drinking excessively. It happens quite frequently. It is an ongoing problem."

As if to underline Chief Carnevale's remarks, there was an article in the February 5 issue of the Princeton High school paper, The Tower, reporting that four PHS students were caught drinking during a Princeton Model Congress trip to Washington, D.C. in mid-December.

pensions mandated by a School Board drug and alcohol policy instituted last year. After a review by Superintendent Carol Choye, one of the suspensions was modified, but the other three students have been barred from all school-sponsored extracurricular activities for a minimum of 45 days.

Alcohol Reading of .46. The most serious incident of drinking during Sign-In over the weekend involved a 19-year-old sophomore who was admitted to the intensive care unit of Princeton Medical Center in a coma. The victim had to have assistance to help in breathing, after his blood alcohol content was measured at .46. He was later listed in satisfactory condition.

Dr. Robert Ceci, the emergency room physician on duty at the Medical Center Saturday night, said the lethal level is around .10. Five other students who were hospitalized had readings ranging from .20 to more than .30, he said. For comparison, a driver with a reading of .10 is considered a drunken driver.

Borough police were involved with the transport of four students. They responded to a 11:03 call from the Charter Club reporting an unconscious student and took two students, ages 20 and 18, to the hospital for treatment. Sgt. William Clark transported a 19-year-old female student to McCosh Infirmary; Ptl. Robert Currier took another 19-year-old coed who was intoxicated and spitting up blood to the hospital.

At 1:18, Ptl. Currier went to the infirmary to help restrain an unruly 18-year-old student who was being treated. The student was subdued with the aid of Princeton First Aid Squad members and taken to the hospital.

The 39 students taken to McCosh spent the night for treatment and observation. Drinking was heavy at the Charter Club and Cloister Inn, the latter sending at least ten of its members to the school infirmary.

John Birmingham, president of Cloister, was quoted in the Daily Princetonian as saying there was irresponsibility on the part of the officers. "It was really disgusting."

Around 11, the situation at the Charter Club was out of hand and club officers took measures to control it. Beer taps were turned off and club bouncers prevented anyone from entering the club, which was cleared by 12:30.

At that point, Dave Orlandini hit for two points, stole the ball back a few seconds later, and Bob Scrabis canned a three-pointer for a 19-15 Princeton advantage. The Tigers stretched that to seven and later 11, 32-21 near the end of the first half. It was 34-26 at the intermission. The Quakers put on a brief rally at the start of the second half to draw within two, 36-34, with 15:22 remaining. They had the ball looking to tie when Anders Vestergaard came up with a key steal, that led to a Scrabis lay-up. The Quakers never got within two points again.

Princeton tallied 22 points the rest of the game, and the majority came on clutch outside shooting by Tim Neff and Orlandini and Scrabis, all of whom hit three-pointers down the stretch. The Orange and Black got its lead back up to nine, 55-46 with 1:15 remaining, and looked to have the contest safely tucked away.

But Walt Frazier, son of the former New York Knicks player, led a Penn rally that brought the home team back to just a three-point deficit with half a minute left. At this point the Red and Blue fouled John Thompson, who sank both foul shots for a 60-55 advantage. Thompson is perfect from the foul line this year, hitting all 10 attempts.

Penn missed a pair of shots near the end, but finally came up with a meaningless basket as the clock ticked off the final seconds. Tryone Pitts was high scorer for the losers with 11

Hun Sports to Resume After 5-Day Flu Break

Scheduled Hun School sport contests had to be cancelled last week when a flu outbreak that affected a third of the 500-member student body forced school officials to close the school at the end of the day last Tuesday.

The opening-round basketball battle between Hun and Hightstown in the Mercer County Tournament was scheduled to be replayed earlier this week. Hun is seeded eighth in the tournament, Hightstown ninth.

Hun coach Kevin Long said that last Wednesday's scheduled game with Peddie has been postponed and will probably not be played.

The Red Raiders' next regular season contest will be this Wednesday, when Hun hosts Lawrenceville School in a 3:15 contest. First round action in the Class A NJISAA State prep school tournament is scheduled to start the following Wednesday.

Also erased by the school closing was last Wednesday's wrestling meet between Hun and Peddie. Athletic director Bill Long said this week that no decision has been made yet on whether to re-schedule the contest.

Coach Dave Engel's Hun grapplers will compete in the annual Mercer County Tournament this weekend, which will be held for the first time at Trenton High.

One More Ski Triumph For Knudson-Fitzpatrick

The 1987-88 northeast regional ski season began on a familiar note for Princeton's Anne Knudson-Fitzpatrick. The owner of The Princeton Fitness Center started the new season in December with a first place finish in Killington's annual Race Week Women's Slalom.

A dominant ski racer in the east for over 15 years, Knudson-Fitzpatrick is a former New Jersey overall state champion and one-time northeast ski champion. She raced with the United States Alpine Ski Team from 1977 to 1981 and was named first alternate to the United States Citizen Ski Team last year.

Belle Mountain Opens For the Winter Season

Belle Mountain ski area on Valley Road in Hopewell Township has opened for the season. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 10 p.m., seven days a week. The slopes are closed between 5 and 6 for grooming.

The ski area has four slopes: two beginner, one intermediate, and a main slope of 1200 feet, with a 200-foot vertical drop. The slopes are serviced by two rope tows, a pony bar and a double chair lift.

A beginner ski package is offered every day. This includes a lift ticket, beginner group lesson, and rental equipment, and costs $20 on weekdays and $24 on weekends and holidays. Group lessons are held at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. daily and every week night at 7. Skiers wishing to purchase a ski package should arrive 45 minutes to one hour before the scheduled group lesson.

For further information, call Belle Mountain at 397-0043.

Acting Dean Is Named At University Chapel

The Rev. Sue Anne Steffey Morrow, who has been serving part time as assistant dean of the Princeton University Chapel, has been designated acting dean as of April 4. This is the date that the present dean, the Rev. Frederick Borsch, who has been selected as the next bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Los Angeles, is expected to relinquish his duties here.

Princeton President Harold T. Shapiro has asked Thomas Wright, University secretary and general counsel, to assemble a small advisory committee to begin the search for a successor to Dean Borsch. In addition to Mr. Wright as head of the committee, the advisory committee will consist of four faculty members and one or two students active in the leadership of Chapel groups. The views of the chaplains who represent the various denominations on campus are expected to be included in the search process, along with the views of the student and governing groups representing the demoninational groups and the Chapel congregation.

Eight years ago Mr. Wright coordinated efforts that produced two reports, one by faculty and the other by trustees, assessing the Dean of the Chapel position. President Shapiro said at a recent press conference that he read those reports and concluded that they would provide a good basis in the search for the new dean.

Copies of the reports are available in the Office of the Secretary, 318 Nassau Hall. Members of the University community and the Chapel congregation interested in contributing comments about the search process or names of prospective candidates are invited to submit their thoughts to Mr. Wright.

Bulletin Notes

The Princeton Ethical Humanist Fellowship will meet Sunday in the main lounge of the Mackay Campus Center, Princeton Theological Seminary. Richard Kiniri, an Ethical Culture leader-in-training, will speak on "Is Greed the American Dream? Reflections on the Bicentennial."

All are welcome; admission is free.

The Rev. Dr. James A. Forbes Jr., professor of homiletics at Union Theological Seminary in New York, will be the guest preacher Sunday at the Princeton University Chapel. His topic will be "On Not Yet Knowing the Lord."

Dr. Forbes is said to be one of the outstanding preachers in America. He has been a conference and workshop leader, speaking and lecturing before lay and clergy groups of many denominations, and has published numerous articles in theological journals. He holds a B.S. degree from Howard University, and M.Div. degree from Union, and a D.Min. degree from Colgate-Rochester Divinity School.

Before joining the Union faculty in 1976, Dr. Forbes held pastorates in Richmond, Va., and in Wilmington and Roxboro, N.C. He also served as campus minister at Virginia Union University in Richmond and was director for education for Interfaith Metropolitan Theological Education, Inc. In 1978 he was interim pulpit minister of the Broadway Presbyterian Church in New York.

The Princeton University

Rainbow Coalition Forum

A Rainbow Coalition Forum on national issues will be held on Monday, February 29, at 8 at the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church, 124 Witherspoon Street.

Speakers will include Lawrence Hamm, chairperson, New Jersey chapter of the Rainbow Coalition, speaking on domestic policy; Janis Strout, member, Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament, on peace; Daniel Kohns, New Jersey Central American Network, on Central America; Maryellen Kluxen, New Jersey chapter of the Rainbow Coalition, on women; George Washington, president, Organization of Black Unity, Princeton University, on young blacks; and Adrienne Taylor, Communication Workers of America, on labor.

Chapel Choir, under the direction of Curtis Lasell, will sing "God So Loved the World" by Stainer. Mr. Lasell, principal University organist, will also be the organist at the service.

Four Ash Wednesday services will be held at Trinity Church (Episcopal), with Holy Eucharist and the imposition of ashes. The service at 7 a.m. will be followed by a light breakfast. The 12:10 p.m. service will include hymns, as will the 5:30 p.m. liturgy, which will be followed by anointing for healing. The Men's, Boys' and Girls' Choir will sing at the 8 p.m. service.

Prince of Peace Lutheran Church will hold an Ash Wednesday service Wednesday, February 17, at 8. Ashes will be distributed and the Rev. Gregg Kaufman will preach the sermon. For information call 799-1753.

The Princeton Seminary Chancel Choir will present a special musical program on Sunday evening, February 21, at 7 at the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church.

The program will consist of sacred music which the choir prepared for chapel services at the Seminary last semester. The choir is conducted by David A. Weadon, director of music and organist at the Seminary. The accompanist is Eric Gombert, a junior at Westminster Choir College, who is the Choir College intern in music at the Seminary.

The choir is composed of students in the Master of Divinity, Master of Arts and Education, and Master of Theology programs at the Seminary. Their program will conclude with a spiritual and a contemporary black gospel composition. The service is open to the public.

OBITUARIES

Eleanor Marquand Delaney, 90, a longtime Princeton resident who was active in numerous civic and cultural affairs here, died February 1 at Mt. Sinai Hospital, New York City. Although she moved to Meadow Lakes, Hightstown, 10 years ago, she maintained her lifelong devotion to Princeton town and gown.

Mrs. Delaney was the daughter of Prof. Allan P. Marquand, founder and developer of the Princeton University Art and Archaeology Department and inventor of a logic machine which was one of the precursors of the computer. Her mother, Eleanor Cross Marquand, was a self-taught expert on flowers and trees. The family lived in Guernsey Hall, adjacent to Marquand Park, which Mrs. Delaney, along with her sisters and brother-in-law, donated to the town in 1953.

Eleanor M. Delaney

Mrs. Delaney graduated from Miss Fine's School and Bryn Mawr College and served on the boards of both institutions. She worked for decades with Family Service Agency and helped found the Princeton chapter of the NAACP Legal Defense Fund. She was also a member of the committee that brought the first integrated housing to Princeton.

To raise scholarship funds for area students attending Bryn Mawr, she organized the annual Bryn Mawr Book Sale and ran the sale for many years. An active participant in political campaigns from 1916 onward, she also worked to preserve several Princeton landmarks, including her childhood home, which was transformed into condominium apartments.

with her whole-hearted participation.

At the time of her death, Mrs. Delaney was a vice president of the Princeton University Class of 1917 and honorary chairperson of the Princeton chapter of the NAACP Legal Defense Fund.

After her marriage to Prof. George H. Forsyth ended in divorce, she married Douglas Delaney, who died in 1969. Mother of the late Eleanor Forsyth of Princeton, she is survived by a daughter, Blaikie F. Worth, and a son, Allan Forsyth, both of New York City; a stepson, Douglas Delaney Jr. of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; and nine grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held Thursday, February 18, at 11 in the Princeton University Chapel. In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to Bryn Mawr College, to Princeton University, or to the Princeton chapter of the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, 47 Locust Lane, Princeton 08540.

Michael A. Cuomo, 88, a former Princeton resident, died February 1 in Tamarac, Fla.

Born in Italy, Mr. Cuomo lived in Princeton for most of his life before moving to Florida 16 years ago. He retired from RCA Laboratories in 1965 after 24 years of service.

Surviving are his wife, Julia; two sons, Paul J. of Miramar, and Robert A. of Ivyland, Pa.; six grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; two sisters, Elvira Guadagno of Princeton, and Katherine Menella of Somerville; and a brother, Frank Cuomo of Princeton.

A memorial service will be held Saturday at 10:30 at the Kimble Funeral Home, 1 Hamilton Avenue, the Rev. Cynthia A. Jarvis, associate minister of the Nassau Presbyterian Church, officiating. Burial will be private in the Princeton Cemetery.

Josephine Maglia, 101, a Princeton resident since 1914, died February 5 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in a small village near Lake Como, Italy, Mrs. Maglia came to this country in 1909 and lived in New York City for five years before coming to Princeton.

Wife of the late Peter Maglia and mother of the late Arthur Maglia, she is survived by a daughter, Elsie Maglia, with whom she resided, and several nieces and nephews in this country and Italy.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church with burial in the parish cemetery. Arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to either the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, PO Box 529, Princeton

214 Nassau Street, Princeton
08542.

T. Frederick Kenny, 45, died
February 5 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Buckingham, Quebec, Canada, Mr. Kenny was raised in Montclair and lived in Princeton for the past 14 years.
He was legal counsel for the agricultural department of American Cyanamid Co. in Princeton from 1974 to 1982 and from 1982 to 1986 was a member of American Cyanamid's legal department in Wayne. He graduated from Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., Harvard College and the Columbia University School of Law.

Surviving are his wife,
Tracey Beam Kenny; two daughters, Elizabeth R. and Erin R. Kenny, both of Princeton; his parents, Thomas R. and Elizabeth G. Kenny of Montclair; and a sister, Lynne Kenny Scott of Oakville, Ontario, Canada.

A memorial service was held at St. Luke's Episcopal Church,
Montclair, the Rev. George M.
Beam officiating. Memorial contributions may be made to the oncology unit of The Medical Center at Princeton, 253
Witherspoon Street, Princeton
08540.

Helena M. Brennan, 98, died
February 6 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Syracuse, N.Y., Mrs.
Brennan had lived in the Trenton and Princeton area for most of her life.

Wife of the late James M.
Brennan, former general manager for RKO Theaters in the Trenton area, and mother of the late James M. Brennan Jr., she is survived by a grandson,
James M. Brennan III, and several nieces and nephews.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Paul's Church with burial in St. Agnes Cemetery, Syracuse. Arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to a charity of the donor's choice.

Bertha C. Perone, 72, died
February 9 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Rocky Hill, Mrs.
Perone moved to Princeton 54 years ago. She retired in 1977 from Princeton Laboratories as a research technician.

Sister of the late Philip Rouse, Emma Breese and Viola White, she is survived by her husband, Victor N. Perone; two sons, Victor H. of West
Windsor and Russell D. of Venice, Fla.; two brothers, Edward Rouse of Jackson, and Harry Rouse of Boca Raton, Fla.; four sisters, Etta DeGhet-to of Bartlett, Ill., Evelyn Luther of Plainsboro, Margaret Wisniewski of East Brunswick, and Mildred Sims of Newton,
Pa.; and five grandchildren.

The service was scheduled to be held this Wednesday at 11 at the Mather-Hodge Funeral Home, 40 Vandeventer Avenue, the Rev. Stephen Williams of Nassau Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial will be in Rocky Hill Cemetery, Rocky Hill. Memorial contributions may be made to the Oncology
Unit of Princeton Medical Center, 253 Witherspoon Street,
Princeton 08540.

Grace M. Nicol, 76, of Princeton Junction, died February 4 at her home.

Born in Old Kilpatrick,
Scotland, she came to the United States in 1951 and lived in Princeton before moving to Princeton Junction 28 years ago. She retired in 1977 after 25 years as a mailer for the Princeton University Press.

She was a member of the Clydebank chapter, Order of the Eastern Star.

Wife of the late John Nicol, she is survived by a son, John Jr. of Princeton Junction; a brother, John Hendry of Scotland; a sister, Elizabeth Jordan of Akron, Ohio; and a grandson.

A private service was held at
the Mather-Hodge Funeral
Home, the Rev. William H.
Jacobsen, associate pastor of Princeton United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery.

Barbara Robinson Sabo, 40, of Lawrenceville, died February 4 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Kingston, N.Y., she lived in Lawrence Township most of her life. She was an administrative assistant with the Presbyterian Homes of New Jersey. A graduate of Notre Dame High School, she attended Rider College.

Surviving are her parents,
Arthur F. and Mary Gabinelli
Robinson of Lawrenceville; five uncles, four aunts and many cousins.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Ann's Church, Lawrenceville, with burial in Princeton Memorial Park.

FIRESTONE COURT — Tucked into an interior cul-de-sac just one block from Firestone Library are five new townhouses situated around a paved courtyard. They are imaginative, well built and include good-sized living rooms and master bedroom suites. Unit five, which is now available, features a solarium, living room with fireplace, efficient modern kitchen and a spacious master bedroom, as well as guest bedroom and studio. It's an unexpected delight with steeply sloped gabled and chimneyed roofs and oak entry ways. To paraphrase a wonderful reporter they look like something out of Dickens, as if they belong more properly in London.

Choice offerings from Callaway

On a pleasant tree lined street in Western Trenton, this attractive stone and frame Garrison Colonial offers: slate foyer, large step-down living room with fireplace, spacious family room with stone fireplace, modern kitchen with charming windowed breakfast room, screened porch, half bath and laundry on first floor. Master suite, three bedrooms (one now a "fitness" room with sauna) and hall bath on second. $199,000

On a quiet country road, just west of Princeton in Lawrence Township, this charming Cape on five plus acres enjoys the serenity of the countryside as well as the attractions Princeton has to offer. Hall, gracious living room with colonial accents, country kitchen opening to terrace, two bedrooms and bath on first floor. Two spacious bedrooms and bath on second. Exceptional apartment with fireplace has many potentials. Separate studio, 3 car garage. $425,000

Spring, Summer, Fall and Winter, every season is beautiful when viewed from each window of this attractive contemporary house. On the Lawrence side of Province Line, with a Princeton address, stone walls and a winding brook enhance the enjoyment of the secluded wooded setting. Dramatic living areas include modern kitchen with delightful dining area, panelled game room, and feature cathedral ceilings and a massive fireplace. Four bedrooms and 3 baths allow flexible bedroom arrangement. A bonus — small office and sewing room hide-a-way. $495,000

Individual 2 acre building lots near Princeton in Lawrence Township, improved and ready to go. $270,000 - $285,000

Lake Front! — those magic words that describe very few locations in Princeton. This special one overlooks 3 miles of the beautiful lake and the finishing line of the exciting crew races. On land first settled in 1654, on the stagecoach route between New York and Philadelphia, it retains the flavor of those earlier days with added modern conveniences. Four bedrooms, 2½ baths. $625,000

Ride to the hounds! Be a cheering spectator or just enjoy the ambiance of this beautiful valley in East Amwell Township. This stately Colonial stands proudly amid green pastures with split rail fencing and picture-perfect barns. With the equipment needed by a Master of the Hounds, it also offers just a gracious style of living. The original house, circa 1760, with its beamed ceiling and walk-in fireplace, is now a delightful family room. Later additions created elegant living areas on first floor. Four bedrooms and 2 baths on second. $795,000

Queenston Commons — One of Princeton's first group of townhouses and still one of the most popular. The central location, use of swimming pool and tennis court and freedom from exterior maintenance are a few of the attractive features. This unit with its charming secluded patio has been well maintained by its original owner and offers the space of many single houses. The living areas are gracious and there are three bedrooms and 2½ baths. A finished basement with workshop adds to the extraordinary storage space. $325,000

Little Known to the Princeton Community, Seminary Celebrates Its 175th Anniversary

ALEXANDER HALL: Originally called the "Old Seminary" and later renamed for Archibald Alexander, Princeton Seminary's first professor, this building initially was dormitory, library, chapel, classrooms and refectory combined. Alexander Hall is now solely a dormitory, consisting largely of single rooms. The bell in the cupola summons the Seminary community to classes, to worship, meals and meetings.

Among the institutions of higher learning in this community, Princeton Theological Seminary is like the middle child — it tends to be overlooked.

Princeton University is older, bigger and better known. The Institute for Advanced Study is the baby, an intellectual think-tank made famous by Einstein. Princeton Seminary is even located midway between these two institutions; its 30-acre campus straddling Mercer Street is west of the University's undergraduate campus and east of the Institute.

Off to the side, but no less a part of the family, Westminster Choir College is the step-child in this scheme, having originated in Ohio as one man's choir and choral training methods which were later brought to Princeton and institutionalized.

Princeton Seminary is celebrating its 175th anniversary this academic year, but few in Princeton are aware of this fact — despite a calendar of lectures and special events including such well-known figures as the Roman Catholic theologian Hans Kung and William Sloane Coffin, civil rights activist and eloquent preacher.

Princeton Seminary is not the divinity school of Princeton University, as some think, but its history is closely intertwined with the College of New Jersey, as the University was called for its first 150 years. Established by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, this post-graduate theological school is the oldest, largest and most influential Presbyterian seminary in the nation. From the time the first three students met August 12, 1912, in the Mercer Street study of its first professor, Archibald Alexander, its primary purpose has been the preparation of ministers, missionaries and educators for the work of the Church.

Diversity. Today, as the current president, the Rev. Dr. Thomas W. Gillespie, points out, Christian ministry is envisaged in ways that are much more diverse, and Princeton Seminary graduates go into social work, counseling and chaplaincy, as well as the ministry. For many years attended only by men, Princeton Seminary has also become increasingly ecumenical and diverse in both its faculty and student body.

One third of the faculty comes from communions other than Presbyterian. Lutherans, Methodists and Episcopalians are represented, as well as a Baptist, a Roman Catholic and a member of the Church of Christ. Moreover, there are 74 denominations represented in the half of the student body that is not Presbyterian.

The 798 students enrolled this year come from every continent around the globe and almost every state in the union. The student body includes 245 women, 49 students who are black, 10 who are Hispanic, 30 Asian-American and 65 from abroad. Two-thirds are enrolled in the three-year master of divinity program, but the Seminary also grants a two-year master of arts in Christian education; a two-year master of theology; a four-year master of divinity combined with master of social work in conjunction with Rutgers University;

News of the THEATRES

'Stepping Out' Is Ready At McCarter Theater

The tap dance comedy Stepping Out opens this week at McCarter Theatre.

The play involves the interactions of an adult tap-dancing class that meets every week in a church basement. They begin as strangers and develop a complex web of relationships as they get to know each other better and become better dancers.

The play was a hit in London, where it won several awards, and on Broadway, where it was directed and choreographed by Tommy Tune.

The McCarter production of Stepping Out is directed by Nagle Jackson, and will open Friday with previews this Wednesday and Thursday. It will run until February 28, with a special AIDS benefit performance on Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Call the McCarter box office at 683-8000 for performance times and ticket reservations.

Four Comedies in One Now at Off-Broadstreet

Robert Anderson's comedy You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running will be presented at the Off-Broadstreet Dessert Theatre in Hopewell through March 19. Composed of four short plays, the comedy played on Broadway in 1967 and 1968.

The four comedies will all be acted by a single cast of five players. Performers include Robert Bonotto, Janice Bremer, A'Leshia Brevard, Michael Kownacky, Mark W. Moede and Robert Thick. Mr. Kownacky will direct two of the plays and perform in two, while Mr. Thick will direct the other two and perform in two.

A thread of mocking gaiety in treating topics generally considered too intimate to be mentioned in public runs through all four plays. The first, entitled The Shock of Recognition, joshes a playwright who wants to shock an audience by having his leading man come onstage from an adjacent bathroom

MAGIC, MIME AND COMEDY blend when Craig Collis appears at Kelsey Theater, Mercer County Community College, Saturday, February 27 at 2 and 4 p.m.

Theatres

The second play is set in a furniture store, with a husband and wife continuing a 25-year argument over whether to get a new double bed or keep the twin beds they have. In the third play, the wife is bent on giving their teenage children extensive sex education information while the husband holds out for reticence, not out of prudishness but out of a wistful clinging to the idea of romance.

Last on the program, in I'm Herbert, an aging man and an old woman recall their previous marriages and experiences — sometimes vague about who were their partners but certain about the fondly remembered episodes.

Performances are at 8 on Friday and Saturday evenings, with dessert at 7. Sunday matinees feature dessert at 1:30 and curtain at 2:30. Friday and Sunday prices are $13.75.

Saturday prices are $15. Senior citizen discounts are available on Sunday matinees.

For reservations call the box office at 466-2766. The Off-Broadstreet Theatre is located at 5 South Greenwood Avenue, Hopewell.

Robert Frost's Poetry To Be Dramatized

A dramatization of Robert Frost's poetry by Bill Bower will be presented Saturday, at 10 a.m. at the Arts Council building.

The presentation is entitled "Literature Becomes Drama: The Art of Chamber Theater" and is sponsored by the Princeton Chapter of the National League of American Pen Woman. The performance will be highlighted by Mr. Bower's personal reflection on the transition from actor to chamber theater performer/director.

Admission is free and the public is welcome.

Mime Magician Set For Two Shows at MCC

Craig Collis, a mime magician, will perform at Kelsey Theater, Mercer County Community College, on Saturday, February 27, at 2 and 4 p.m.

Mr. Collis is skilled in the use of pantomime as well as magic sets. He has performed widely, including shows at the 1980 Winter Olympics, with the Philadelphia Orchestra, and at New York's Lincoln Center.

For more information or to order tickets by phone, call 586-4695. MasterCard and Visa are accepted.

Plays, Poems and Art By Children Are Sought

Using characters, narration, and dialogue created by young authors, the four actors of the troupe add music, mime, sound effects, songs, props, costumes, and dialogue to fashion the performance. The show is entitled "New Voices" and includes seven to 10 short original works, up to four of which will be performances of material written by area children. The deadline for submission of material is March 1.

A special awards presentation will be conducted in the middle of the show. Certificates of Creativity will be awarded to all of the world-premiere authors. To encourage and stimulate as many young talented writers as possible, as many as 15 additional children will be honored with certificates in recognition of work showing exceptional creativity.

Writers are also encouraged to send drawings and artwork if they wish. These can be used to help design costumes or backdrops for the plays. Some children are better artists than writers, and they are able to do their storytelling through illustrations.

Child's Play Touring Theatre was founded in 1979 by Victor and Jane Podagrosi. It has performed at the Smithsonian Institution and Wolf Trap Performing Arts Park in Washington, D.C.; the Indianapolis Children's Museum; the Field Museum of Chicago; the Ravinia Festival; the Detroit Institute of the Arts; and in thousands of schools, libraries, museums and theaters in the United States and Canada. Last season alone, the actors read more than 30,000 pieces by young authors.

To receive a copy of the rules, write to Crackerjacks, McCarter Theatre, 90 University Place, Princeton 08540. There will be a public performance of the works on May 14 at 1 and two student matinee performances on May 16. For ticket information and reservations call 683-8000.

Hyacinth Foundation, an organization which provides support services for people affected with AIDS, and the Personal Liberty Fund, an arm of the New Jersey Lesbian and Gay Coalition which operates the New Jersey AIDS Project.

According to Larry Capo, administrative director of McCarter and chairman for the benefit, the staff approached the McCarter board of trustees and asked for their support and permission to use the theatre's resources for an AIDS benefit. The board agreed, and pledged to support the effort. All in the company are donating their time and energy to meet a goal of raising $25,000 for the two organizations.

The benefit is part of a year-long commitment on the part of the entertainment industry to raise funds for AIDS patient care, education and counseling. The League of Resident Theatres, of which McCarter Theatre is a member, and the Actors' Equity Association have agreed to waive any expense involved with the February 14 evening performance. In addition the company which holds the rights to the play, Samuel French, Inc., has donated the evening's royalties to the cause.

Winner of the London Standard's Comedy of the Year Award, Stepping Out is a play with music which focuses on an adult tap dance class and the seven women and one man who come there to escape the realities of workaday London. The McCarter production is being directed by Nagle Jackson.

Tickets for the February 14 AIDS benefit are $25. For reservations and further information call the McCarter box office at 683-8000.

Concert Will Feature Contemporary Dance

The Princeton University Program in Theater and Dance will present its annual Concert of Contemporary Dance in Richardson Auditorium Thursday, Friday and Saturday, February 18, 19 and 20, at 8 p.m. The concert will feature choreography by guest artist Julio Rivera, as well as works by Princeton University faculty and students.

Mr. Rivera, a member of the faculty at the Alvin Ailey American Dance Center, has appeared as a soloist with many leading dance companies in the United States and Europe. He has taught at dance institutions throughout the world and is director of his own company, Contemporary Motions. A graduate of Princeton, he has created a new work, Long Ago Tomorrow. It is set in a primordial environment where an alien species evolves.

PART OF THE PROGRAM: The scene is from "Long Ago Tomorrow," choreographed by Princeton graduate Julio Enrique Rivera, which is one of the offerings in the Contemporary Dance Concert to be performed by faculty and students in the Program in Theater and Dance Friday, Saturday and Sunday, February 18, 19 and 20, at Richardson Auditorium.

and devolves through joy and conflict.

Ze'eva Cohen, supervisor of dance at Princeton and artistic director of her own New York company, will present Preludes to the music of Claude Debussy. The work, which will be accompanied by the pianist Hei-Ock Kim '89, celebrates woman's sensuality, as tenderness and naivete are affected by deep, and sometimes violent, forces.

Student choreographers have fashioned a varied series of duets and group dances. Christine Duffy, Jill Foronda, Keith Hartman, Joe Marshall, Rebecca Patton, Cynthia Shimoda and Lisa Williamson will perform their own works. Other dancers include Emily Danielli, Jill Sigmund, Sandra Tsang, Lisa Washington and Rebecca Young.

Student work was developed under the direction of faculty member Elizabeth Keen, whose work will be seen this spring in London at Covent Garden, the National Theater and Glyndebourne, as well as company, Contemporary Motions. A graduate of Princeton, Program costumer Susan Brown has designed the costumes and Michael Byrne of the Princeton Ballet is responsible for the lighting.

Guys and Dolls is a musical fable set in the 1940s in New York City. It is the story of gamblers, their adventures, and their loves.

The cast includes Laura Brewster as Adelaide, Mark Raskin as Nathan Detroit, and Megan Davis as Sarah Brown. Jeff Spera plays Sky Masterson, and Gregory Harbach is Nicely-Nicely Johnson.

Also in the cast are Pennington School faculty members Joe Flynn, Seth Anderson and Art Campbell. The play is produced by Art Campbell, directed by Mike Winkler and choreographed by Lisa Carril. The music director is Melissa Mesrobian, and musical accompaniment is furnished by Paul and Janice Hofreiter.

Film 'Black Orpheus' At the Public Library

The feature film Black Orpheus will be shown at the Public Library Wednesday, February 17, at 8 p.m.

The film is a lyrical updating of the Orpheus and Eurydice legend. The tragic story is movingly reenacted in the colorful and exciting atmosphere of Carnival in Rio de Janeiro. A rhythmic score by Antonio Carlos Jobim is woven throughout. The film is in Portuguese with English subtitles.

Black Orpheus won the Academy Award for Best Foreign Film in 1960 and the Grand Prix at the Cannes Film Festival.

Do You Often Quickly Regain Weight You Have Lost?

You might be surprised to learn that on the average less than ten percent of all dieters maintain their weight loss for three years. This is due to the fact that most dieters are treating the symptoms of being overweight instead of working to alleviate the underlying problem.

At Diet Center we enjoy a much higher level of long-term success than the national average. The reason? We teach you how to adapt your lifestyle to ensure that the weight you lose with us never returns. Call today and find out how Diet Center can help you lose weight and keep it off forever.

MUSIC

Double Bach Program For Musical Amateurs

The Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs will hold its February sing-through Sunday at 4 at the Unitarian Church.

The program will feature Cantata 150 by J.S. Bach with an orchestra of strings and solo bassoon. After an intermission with refreshments, the group will sing the choruses from The Seasonings, including "By the Leeks of Babylon," and "Bide Thy Thyme," by Bach's "least known son," P.D.Q. Bach — a Peter Schickele invention. These works will be accompanied by the kazoo, foghorn, slide whistle, shower hose in D — and strings.

Lynne Ransom will conduct. Ms. Ransom teaches conducting at Westminster Choir College's Conservatory, is director of music at the Princeton United Methodist Church and the conductor of the Hopewell Valley Chorus. She also conducts Voices, an a cappella professional group.

Singers from Voices will be the soloists in both halves of the program. They are Michele Disco, soprano; Sandra West, alto; Richard Kugler, tenor; and William Riley, bass. For further information call Carlette Winslow at 921-1404.

Sunday Concert Features Soprano, Horn and Piano

The Westminster Choir College Faculty Recital Series continues with a performance by Lois Laverty, soprano, Sally Weaver, French horn, and Glenn Parker, piano, Sunday at 8 in Bristol Chapel. The program will include Romance by Saint-Saens, Concerto by Franz Strauss, and Gedichte von Eduard Morike by Hugo Wolf.

A member of the Westminster voice faculty, Ms. Laver-

Rutgers Concert Features 500 Years of Vocal Music

Judith Nicosia, soprano, will join William Gokelman, pianist, Valorie Goodall, soprano, Frederick Urrey, tenor, Polly Van Der Linde, pianist, Mark Zaki, violist, and the Rutgers Chamber Ensemble with William Berz, conductor, in a concert of vocal music from England on Sunday at 4.

Part of the Music Faculty Scholarship Concert Series, this "Valentine of Music for Voice" will take place at Nicholas Music Center in the Rutgers Arts Center on George Street at Route 18, New Brunswick. For further information, or to charge tickets by phone, call (201) 932-7511.

The repertoire for the concert will include works by Benjamin Britten and Ralph Vaughn Williams, with dates of the compositions spanning the years from 1500 to 1980. Songs from poems by Edith Sitwell, hymns for tenor, viola and piano, duets and trios, and Sir William Walton's Facade will be featured.

Pianist Planning Recital On University Campus

Pianist Douglas Dickson will perform on Sunday, February 21, at 3 p.m. in the McAlpin Room in the Woolworth Center at Princeton University. Under the auspices of the Friends of Music, admission is free.

A native of Salt Lake City, Mr. Dickson graduated magna cum laude from Princeton University in 1983, winning the Sacks Memorial Prize in music. While at Princeton, he studied piano with Patricia Arden and performed often, both as soloist and accompanist, including an appearance with the Princeton University Orchestra. He has performed extensively in Japan, including a recital at Expo '85.

Mr. Dickson currently studies with Donald Currier at the Yale School of Music and was recently accepted into Yale's doctoral program.

The program will include J. S. Bach's Chaconne transcribed by J. Brahms and arranged by Paul Wittgenstein; Weber, Sonata No. 4 in E Minor, Op. 70; Barber, Excursions, Op. 20;

Benita Valente

and Brahms, Variations and Fugue on a Theme by Handel, Op. 24.

Soprano to Sing Concert At Trenton State College

Soprano Benita Valente will give a concert Wednesday, February 17, at 8 in the Kendall Hall Theater at Trenton State College. She will also give a vocal education presentation Thursday morning, February 18, at 10 in Bray Music Center. The public is invited to both events.

Miss Valente is a celebrated interpreter of lieder, chamber music and oratorio, and has performed operatic roles as well. She began her career in 1960, when she was the winner of the Metropolitan Opera National Council Auditions. She soon became soprano-in-residence at the Marlboro Festival, where her performances and recordings with pianist Rudolf Serkin brought her reknown.

Tickets for the February 2 concert are $10 and may be ordered in advance by calling 771-2765. Admission to the vocal presentation is also $10; combination tickets for both events are available in advance for $15.

Sunday Concert Planned By Amado String Quartet

The Amado String Quartet will present a concert at Trenton State College on Sunday at 4 in the Bray Music Center. The group will perform string quartets by Mozart and Borodin and will be joined by flutist Dent Williamson of the college's music faculty for two flute quintets by Boccherini.

The quartet, now in its sixth year as Quartet-in-Residence at Trenton State College, has performed extensively in the tri-state area for 20 years.

The concert includes Mozart's Quartet in C, K. 564 (Dissonant); Flute Quintet in D, Op. 21, No. 1, and Flute Quintet in G, Op. 17, No. 5, both by Boccherini; and String Quartet No. 2 by Borodin.

The performance is free and open to the public. For more information, call the Trenton State College music department at 771-2551.

Phineas Is Back Home And Family Is Grateful

To the Editor of Town Topics: We would like to thank Patrolman Emann of the Princeton Township Police for his gallant rescue of our ten-year-old beagle, Phineas, from Lake Carnegie on Sunday, January 31.

Phineas got out of the house about 10 p.m. on Saturday night, and when he hadn't come back by morning, we were in a state of panic. As a younger dog, Phineas used to have adventures (like the time he followed a lady friend into a sewer pipe where they were both trapped for several hours), but even then he had never been gone all night.

At the crack of dawn we began combing the area on foot and in the car, but there was no sign of him. Finally we reported him missing to the police and broke the news to our seven-year-old daughter, Flannery, who was heartbroken. Then at 1:30 we got a call from the Township Police dispatcher saying that Phineas was safe and had been taken to the animal shelter.

But that is not the end of the story. About an hour or so later, Patrolman Emann stopped by our house to explain the circumstances of the rescue and to reassure us that Phineas was all right. He had actually been trapped on a ledge in a pool of water; Patrolman Emann heard him howling and managed to pull him out.

Phineas was very cold and scared, but he was fine and had fallen asleep as soon as he got into the police car. Patrolman Emann knew we would be worried about him since we could not redeem him from the shelter until Monday morning.

As temporary residents of Princeton (for one academic year), we were most impressed by the efficiency and consideration displayed by the Police, particularly Patrolman Emann. We are also grateful to the courteous employees of the Clerk's office (where we paid the redemption fee) and to Mrs. Graves of the Animal Shelter who was very sympathetic and concerned. Princeton should be very proud of these dedicated and caring individuals.

Questions Are Raised By Lisa Miner's Case

To the Editor of Town Topics: Two aspects of the Lisa Miner case raise questions in my mind.

First, if the young woman is mentally impaired and cannot control her emotions and impulses, what correctional purpose is served by punishing her with a prison term of up to 15 years?

Second, according to press reports, the abused child's father seems to have deliberately incited Ms. Miner's impotent rage by appearing with another woman, engaging in an argument, and then leaving her. What is his responsibility in all this?

I agree with Judge Barlow that child abuse cannot appear to be tolerated, but I believe there is an alternative, with ample precedent, to the choice between prison and the insane asylum for Ms. Miner. That is, to find an appropriate institution in another state and pay for Ms. Miner's care.

This has been done before when special facilities were needed and were unavailable in

New Jersey. If no such institution exists anywhere, perhaps several states in the mid-Atlantic region could cooperatively build and share one.

Thank-You to Parents Who Helped With Derby

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I would like to thank parents who helped make the Pinewood Derby a success this year. More than 40 people volunteered to bake or take on a job on Derby day. Four people in particular gave hours of their time and energy, and the event would not have run without their help. These are Art McDonald, Nancy Brauer, Jose Alcantara and Don Light.

I would also like to thank the helping Boy Scouts from Pack 43, the Arts Council of Princeton for giving us facilities for pit crew the day before the race, and we are most grateful to John Wood for his generous sponsorship.

A Christmas Thank-You From a Senior Citizen

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I would like to convey to you my thanks to Landau's Adopt-a-Neighbor Program for making the Christmas holidays enjoyable. It was a very beautiful thing that they did for the senior citizens and elderly at Princeton. My thanks also goes to Jocelyn Helm at the Senior Resource Center and the merchants at Princeton.

It made things more interesting during the holiday. What was even more special about it was that it seemed just like a good old fashioned Christmas. Thanks and appreciation.

UNICEF Is Beneficiary Of Annual Card Sale

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Under the auspices of the International Center at Princeton University, Murray-Dodge Hall, volunteers sold $14,600 worth of UNICEF items.

On behalf of the "Children of the World" we wish to express our gratitude for the loyal support of buyers in the Princeton area and hope that new customers will also find their way to purchase UNICEF items throughout the year. Much appreciation goes to the dedicated volunteer sales staff of the International Center!

Chef's Corner

Did you know...

Camembert is a cow's milk cheese that is creamy and Brie like. It was supposed to have been invented about 1790 by Mme. Marie Harel, a farmer's wife who lived in Vimoutiers, Normandy. The cheese was given its name by Napoleon, who, while stopping for lunch in the little village of Camembert, was so impressed with its taste that he leapt to his feet and kissed the maid that served it. It is delicious when fully ripe and should be served with good crusty French bread and either a glass of wine or French apple cider. Chef's Market will take $1.00 off Delice de France Camembert and also sells Martinelli's fine sparkling cider.

as well as doctor of philosophy and doctor of ministry degrees.

There are 45 full-time faculty members (10 of whom are women and five minority), and 19 visiting lecturers. More than half the full-time faculty occupy fully endowed chairs. Speer Library boasts close to 394,000 catalogued items.

Princeton Seminary is not the divinity school of Princeton University, as some think ...

Princeton Seminary is exceptionally well-endowed in terms of its financial resources as well as its facilities.

Religious Revival. A century before the actual founding of Princeton Seminary in 1812, a period of religious revival known as the "Great Awakening" swept the colonies. This revival, plus a shortage of clergy, prompted an Irish-born, Edinburgh-educated Presbyterian minister named William Tennent to teach Bible studies, languages and evangelical zeal in a log cabin in Neshaminy, Pa.

The "Log College" graduates and New England Presbyterians, caught up — sometimes to excess — in the fervor and enthusiasm of the revival, were dubbed "New Side" by the more restrained, objective "Old Side" Presbyterians of the middle colonies. Conflict between the two led to the founding of the College of New Jersey in 1746 by four moderate New Side Presbyterian pastors who were graduates of Yale and Harvard. Several Log College graduates were among the first seven trustees of the college.

This pre-Seminary history is mentioned because the New Side-Old Side conflict within the Presbyterian Church continued, under different names and with different theological tenets at stake, well into the 20th century. Princeton Theological Seminary attempted to steer a middle — albeit fairly conservative — course throughout. Twice the tension proved so acute as to cause an actual rupture in the Presbyterian Church, and the Seminary was particularly involved in the second of these, in 1929.

But that is getting ahead of the story. Princeton Seminary's first 125 years, according to the Rev. Dr. Hugh T. Kerr, longtime professor at the Seminary and editor of Theology Today, were marked by a homogeneity and uniformity in the faculty, student body and curriculum. The Seminary has been described as "an offspring" of the College of New Jersey, founded when the college became too secular and liberal, more interested in incorporating the emerging sciences into the curriculum than in fostering religious studies.

Need for Ministers. However, Dr. Kerr says the main reason for the founding of the Seminary was the western expansion of the country and the need for more ministers than the college was able to supply. In the last half of the 18th century, all learning was of a piece, as Dr. Kerr puts it. Schools and colleges were generally church-initiated, and general education was the context for professional studies in medicine and the law, as well as in theology.

Soon, however, there was a conviction within the church that ministerial training required a special program of post-graduate theological education — similar to the special programs required by law and medicine. In this context, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church voted in 1809 (some sources say 1811) to consider formally the founding of a seminary. In 1812, Princeton was chosen as the location — the mid-point in the nation as it then existed.

Dr. Alexander was appointed "professor of didactic polemic divinity." The first three students were soon joined by six more. In 1813, Dr. Samuel Miller left the pastorate of a Wall Street church to become the second professor. The first building, Alexander Hall, was begun in 1815 with funds appropriated by the General Assembly.

The "Design of the Seminary" was drawn up by Ashbel Green, president of the College of New Jersey from 1812 to 1822. In it the purpose of the Seminary was "to unite in those who shall sustain the ministerial office ... that piety of the heart, which is the fruit only of the renewing and sanctifying grace of God, with solid learning; believing that religion without learning, or learning without religion, in the ministers of the gospel, must ultimately prove injurious to the church."

The dialectic between piety and learning — also reflected in the New Side-Old Side, New School-Old School — provided a creative tension which energized the Seminary through most of its history. As Dr. Kerr puts it, the piety side of the formula stems from the accent on personal salvation, the experience of repentance and forgiveness, and the Christian life of faith, justification and sanctification.

On the other hand, the new institution was to be a school with teachers, students and a library, where "ideas of the mind as well as convictions of the heart" would be employed in the service of "solid learning."

'The Princeton Theology.' Dr. Alexander taught for 39 years, Dr. Miller for 26, and the Rev. Dr. Charles Hodge, a student of Dr. Alexander who became the Seminary's third professor, was on campus for 56 years. The three men, but particularly Dr. Hodge, are associated with what came to be known as "The Princeton Theology" which took the 1643 Westminster Confession as the creedal authority of the church but used Swiss Calvinistic scholasticism to refine and structure it.

Dr. Hodge's three-volume

Systematic Theology, which set forth the Princeton Theology, became the standard textbook and reference of American Presbyterianism for years. Loefferts Loetscher, who taught American church history for 40 years at Princeton Seminary, noted in his book The Broadening Church, "the Princeton Theology not only tried to guarantee an inerrant Bible, but presupposed it as the foundation of its theological method and structure." Over time, the method and structure became increasingly rigid.

Only Five Presidents. For the first 90 years, the Seminary did not have a president; rather, the senior member of the faculty presided at faculty meetings. In 1902, at the recommendation of the board of directors, the General Assembly amended the Plan of the Seminary, and Francis Landey Patton, a former Seminary professor who was president of Princeton University between James McCosh and Woodrow Wilson, became the first president of the Seminary.

Dr. Patton was succeeded in 1913 by J. Ross Stevenson, who was president during the turbulent period when the campus was embroiled in the "fundamentalist-modernist" dispute that had spread throughout the church. This dispute descended from the New School-Old School controversies. The modernists took seriously the newer methods of historical, critical and literary interpretations of the Bible, while the fundamentalists felt that any of the new trends threatened the authority of Scripture and the Church.

A Princeton Seminary professor, Dr. J. Gresham Machen, was one of the leaders of a small group of extreme conservatives who continued to fuel the debate. In 1929, following the mediating report of a Special Commission proposed by Dr. Charles R. Erdman, professor of pastoral theology and moderator of the General Assembly, to study the causes of unrest, Dr. Machen and several trustees, faculty and students seceded from the Seminary and formed Westminster Theological Seminary in Philadelphia.

Dr. John A. Mackay, who became the Seminary's third president in 1936, is credited Expanded Faculty. A stern, somewhat authoritarian figure, he reinvigorated the faculty by recruiting new young scholars from abroad. Among them were Emil Bruner, a contemporary of the Swiss theologian Karl Barth; Edward Jurg, a Lebanese who instituted the study of comparative religion; Otto Piper from Germany, who taught New Testament; Joseph Hromadka, a Czech and very popular lecturer in theology.

The dialectic between piety and learning... provided a creative tension which energized the Seminary through most of its history.

with single-handedly restoring vitality to a campus left in shambles by the 1929 split. A Scottish-born graduate of the Seminary, Class of 1915, who had studied under the Spanish poet Unamuno and spent his early years teaching and founding schools in South America, Dr. Mackay brought a new vision and emphasis on the ecumenical dimension of the Gospel.

Other recruits from this era include Charles Fritsch, Old Testament; Bruce Metzger, New Testament; W. J. Beeners, speech; Dr. Loetscher, American Church history, and Dr. Kerr, who was brought to Princeton to start a new theological journal, Theology Today.

Dr. Mackay also brought a degree of standardization to the curriculum, something that had been lacking in all theological schools up to this time. And he re-established the contact with Princeton University which had been disrupted during the turbulent period before and after the split.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

ROSES with Sam DeTuro Woodwinds Associates

Fresh cut roses are a very special gift. Take proper care of your roses and the blooms will last for two weeks.

Remove foliage and thorns from the part of the stem that will be submerged when arranging flowers. Fill your sink with several inches of tepid water. Holding the stem end under water, re-cut it at an angle using a sharp paring knife. It is important to do this under water, for as you do this the stem draws up water. When done out of water, the resulting air bubble prevents further water absorption.

Immediately place each cut stem in a container of hot (not boiling water). After all are cut, stand container in a cool place until the water cools down. The hot water treatment is important to restore water throughout the stem. Now you are ready to arrange your roses.

Fill your vase with clean cool water and add floral preservative to it. Place roses in one by one. Recut stems under water to get blossoms at various heights.

Keep your rose bouquet out of sun and drafts and add fresh water daily. To make roses last as long as possible recut stems under water a half inch above old cut every three or four days.

For healthy trees and shrubs, call WOODWINDS at 924-3500 for annual feeding and maintenance. We're glad to be of service!

A CELEBRATION OF DIVERSITY: "Subway Graffiti No. 3" is one of Faith Ringgold's colorful "story quilts," which will be on view at ETS's Henry Chauncey Conference Center through the end of February.

Quilts by Faith Ringgold Celebrate Black History

Educational Testing Service is observing Black History Month with an exhibition of "story quilts" by Harlem artist Faith Ringgold at its Henry Chauncey Conference Center. Using a combination of painting and quilting techniques, Ms. Ringgold creates unique works of art that tell family stories and capture the world around her. In their celebration of black womanhood, her quilts have been compared with the work of contemporary black women writers like Alice Walker and Toni Morrison. (One of her quilts, which is not included in this show, was based on Ms. Walker's novel The Color Purple.)

Ms. Ringgold's use of quilting, traditionally a women's art form, underscores her feminist commitment. The acrylic paintings on canvas panels and squares which she pieces together with fabric borders to make a quilt are deliberately naive in style. Her figures, executed in flat areas of bright color, are generally stiff and frontal, in keeping with the "folk art" character of the quilt medium and the tales that she narrates.

A quilt titled The Women: Mask Face Quilt #1 is made up of rows of canvas squares painted with the portrait heads and torsos of black women. Although the faces are mask-like in their frontality and lack of expression, their shiny sequin eyes and individualized features and attire — ranging from a track suit to a sophisticated urban outfit — give them a curious animation. This piece might be subtitled "In praise of the diversity of black women." The rich detail of the figures is echoed in the borders of the quilt, stitched together from colorful pieces of fabric, including tie-dyed cloth.

The main panel of another of Ms. Ringgold's quilts, Subway Graffiti #3, presents a scene familiar to anyone who has ridden the New York City subways — a jumble of figures crowded together on a platform waiting for a train. Here, once again, the artist celebrates the colorful self-expression of the people around her. The dress and hairstyles of the figures are lovingly detailed, as is the lively graffiti on the wall behind them. A strip of brightly-colored graffiti also makes up part of the border of the quilt.

The centerpiece of this exhibition is a series of three "Lover's Quilts," which tells the moving story of a couple in pictures and written text. The narrative, encompassing scenes of The Wedding, Sleeping, and The Funeral, chronicles the marriage of Addy and Luther, Addy's affair with Luther's brother, and the couple's tragic death.

The wedding and funeral quilts, which are similar in format, with rows of squares bearing portrait heads of witnesses to the events, provide a striking frame for the central scene of the sleeping lovers.

Markings on the Wall. While Faith Ringgold's quilts record living history, the paintings of Lawrenceville artist Barbara Klein, currently on view in Stuart Country Day School's Norbert Considine Gallery, evoke the passage of millennia. Like other artists who have reacted against streamlined modernism in recent years, Ms. Klein looks to primitive sources in her work. There is nothing slick or finished about her raw, intense paintings, with their gouged, heavily incrustated surfaces.

Ms. Klein finds her chief inspiration in the textures and markings of walls — Stone Age cave paintings, Pompeian frescos and even the ruins of modern inner cities — which have been changed and eroded by time, nature and human activity. Her paintings are the result of many accumulated layers of paint, all of which contribute to the final image. Through the manipulation of varied media, including acrylic emulsion, oils and encaustic (a technique of painting on panel using a mixture of heated wax and resin as a binder for the pigment), she achieves a richly textured surface.

The image of a wall ravaged by time is most apparent in a mixed-media work called Double-Eagle, where the artist has applied torn paper over the canvas to give the effect of the peeling away of layers of paint or wallpaper. A few metal push-pins are stuck through the paper as if in an effort to keep it from entirely peeling away. Scratches in the surface and traces of markings on the "wall" give further evidence of the passage of time. The piece is unframed, as are most of Ms. Klein's paintings, suggesting that this might be a fragment of a larger structure, rather than a self-contained work of art.

In other small paintings, such as a work entitled Proximity, the artist explores a vocabulary of primal forms that mysteriously emerge from the darkness. The counterpoint of black and white shapes in this piece and the rich treatment of the black background, with its variations in lustre and vigorously scratched surface, are particularly eloquent.

The somber palette of Ms. Klein's small paintings is carried through in her larger works, which are more strongly primitivist in style. In these paintings, simple linear patterns or broad areas of color may be used to trace out a rudimentary subject (e.g. Crow, Row House, Kimono, Head), or there may be only cryptic markings. A painting called Hierarchy, for example, presents a strange "landscape" of the imagination. Aside from the motif of a swirling funnel cloud — the "dervish" of another work by that name — the markings in this painting are obscure. The surface of the piece suggests a complex history, however, with its many hidden layers of paint reveal by raised areas, craters and scratchings.

The show will run through February 26 at Stuart Country Day School.

Children's Art Workshops Offered by Arts Council

Two six-week art workshops for children in grades one to four will be offered at the Arts Council of Princeton by artist/educator Susan Kriegman.

A "Children's Design Workshop" will be held on Thursdays from 4 to 5:15 p.m., beginning February 18. The emphasis will be on creative problem solving in visual design. Children will design puzzles, invent animated alphabets, explore puppetry, create box collages, design stationery and learn to make floor plans.

A "Children's Drawing Workshop" will be held Tuesdays from 4 to 5:15 p.m., beginning February 16. The emphasis will be on exploration of a variety of traditional and non-traditional drawing techniques. Participants will create line drawings, figure drawings, self-portraits, pattern drawings and illustrations.

"PROXIMITY," a painting by Barbara Klein, is in a show of the artist's work at Stuart Country Day School's Norbert Considine Gallery.

Ms. Kriegman, who holds a B.S. in art education and a masters of fine arts, recently returned to Princeton from Michigan, where she was a visiting artist at the Center for Creative Studies.

Class sizes are limited to ten. To register, call Ms. Kriegman at 275-6553 before Saturday.

about visual sensations than objective documentation.

Princeton Gallery of Fine Art, 4 Chambers Street, will present a major exhibition of watercolors by Werner Drewes from February 11 through March 12. Featured will be still lifes, landscapes, and European city scenes done in the 1940's, 1950's, and 1960's.

The artist, who died in 1985, is known for his abstract paintings, drawings, and prints. This exhibition will present more representational works than are usually seen.

Exhibits

Silkscreen prints by Phyllis Demong are on exhibit for the month of February in the gallery of the Allan P. Kirby Arts Center, The Lawrenceville School.

The exhibit consists of landscapes, still life, figure studies, and posters. Mrs. Demong is a graduate of the College of Fine Arts of Syracuse University, from which she received the highest alumni award for outstanding achievement in the arts in 1979. She has exhibited widely and won many prizes and awards in national and regional shows.

Gallery hours are 8 to 4 Monday through Friday. Weekend hours can be arranged by a call to Jack Garver, 895-2035.

The Squibb Gallery will feature a solo exhibition of Idelle Weber's luminous realistic paintings of ponds and formal gardens from February 11 through April 3.

The selection of 15 paintings, ranging in length from two to 15 feet, is drawn from Ms. Weber's last three series on Giverny, Versailles, Villandry and Long Island gardens.

Ms. Weber's first New York solo exhibition, in 1963, featured Pop Art paintings of businessmen, but it was Photo-Realist paintings of fruit stands and city trash that won her widespread recognition in the early 1970s. She has painted floral landscapes, like those in the Squibb exhibition, since 1979, characterizing them as "photo-generate" because, while photos are used as preliminary studies, the works are more

IT'S NEW To Us

Mole Hole at Forrestal Offers Array of Gifts

"We're delighted to be here," reports Bill Haines, co-owner of The Mole Hole in Princeton Forrestal Village. "This is an excellent location. The Village is appealing for customers, and the parking is convenient. In time, the center will grow, and there will be more and more people. There is already a lot of repeat business. In fact, in January, two-thirds of our business was repeat customers."

Mr. Haines opened The Mole Hole last September with his partner Ed Oehler. His most recent business experience had been in the corporate world, so the move to a retail operation was something of a departure for him. "I was formerly vice president for finance and administration for a company in Philadelphia," he explains. "But I was with the company for 17 years and felt I wanted a change. I thought it was time for a new chapter. I'd had some retail experience in college, and when this opportunity came along, I liked the independence it offered."

"I've always been a self-starter type of individual. I enjoy working on my own," he continues. "There's a tremendous sense of satisfaction. There's a lot of work, too. But it's rewarding. To me, it's the planning, organizing, the display and the buying — it's all challenging."

One of 114 Mole Hole stores throughout the country (at least one in each state), the shop emphasizes a variety of gifts, specializing in a selection of Oriental items, art work, unique gifts and children's favorites.

GIFTS GALORE: "A Sweetheart of a Sale" will be offered throughout Princeton Forrestal Village this week, notes Bill Haines, owner of The Mole Hole of Princeton, located at the Village. "We'll be participating in the sale, and in particular, we'll have two tables of Valentine's Day items all at special prices."

"One of our specialties is the handblown Wolfard Oil Lamp, and it is exclusive to us in this area," says Mr. Haines. "In different styles and sizes, the lamp is easy to care for and produces a friendly glow. It was part of the Whitney Museum of American Art's exhibition, 'High Styles.'"

Another favorite at The Mole Hole is the collection of "Wee Forest Folk." "Customers come from miles around for these tiny decorative mice," notes Mr. Haines. "They're handmade by Annette Petersen and others in her family, and they're very collectible. We have a variety, including some for Valentine's Day."

Wonderful Kaleidoscopes. The shops is also known for its outstanding selection of kaleidoscopes. "We probably have a larger variety of kaleidoscopes than any other place," comments Mr. Haines. "They come from all different places. It's sort of a cottage industry. We deal with a lot of individuals from all over, and the kaleidoscopes are all different. Some are copper, brass and enamel, some have mirrors and stained glass. Others even have oil in them, so the design changes in slow motion. These appeal to adult collectors, but we have them for children, too."

The handcrafted ducks, rabbits and lambs by Raul of California have also been very popular with customers. Made of whitewashed terra cotta, these charming pieces, including a carousel horse, have a country flavor.

The shop has recently added a selection of the top-of-the-line Caithness paperweights from Scotland. In different sizes and designs, these are truly beautiful decorative objects. Some are limited editions and very collectible. There is an assortment of other paperweights as well, with some starting at $4.95.

Handblown perfume bottles are popular now, and The Mole Hole also has a large variety of music boxes. Made in Italy with a Swiss movement, they are very handsome.

A striking display of Oriental items is a highlight of the store, and The Mole Hole specializes in finely detailed vases, bowls, dishes, lidded boxes, ash trays, a variety of decorative objects and particularly lovely prints, distinguished by their soft and subtle colors.

A variety of other prints is also available, including those by Edna Hibel and Mary Cassatt. "We have a nice selection," observes Mr. Haines. "Everything is framed, and they're modestly priced from $100 to $500. Some are signed and numbered. We also have an approval plan in which you can take a print home to see how it looks. If it doesn't work out, there's no problem about returning it."

Smell the Flowers. The Mole Hole is noted both for the attractive look of the store and the pleasant aroma that circulates through the air. The shop's selection of potpourri changes seasonally, and now a whiff of hyacinths in "The Smell of Spring" greets customers as they enter the shop. In connection with the romantic occasion just ahead, another potpourri choice, "The Smell of Love," attractively packaged, is also available.

A number of Valentine's Day items are specially displayed on two tables. There is a variety of pretty boxes, including handcrafted alabaster boxes from Italy. Their design with a pale pink rose is especially appealing. There is also a heart-shaped silver box with a cameo design for $24.95, as well as heart-shaped picture frames, perfume bottles, paperweights, framed romantic quotations, candles and cards (some beautifully elaborate Victorian types).

A tiny gold heart for collar or lapel can be a declaration of your true feelings, and if you'd like to give someone a little extra love this Valentine's Day, there is an intriguing small box filled with nothing but love and a card expressing this sentiment for $2.95.

Little felt red mouse bookmarks are also $2.95, and brass bookmarks with a red butterfly are $3.95.

Children are not forgotten at The Mole Hole, and there is a wonderful selection of stuffed animals, including bears dressed in kilts, sweaters, plaid slacks and even a fox hunting outfit. Whimsical hand-knitted kittens and rabbits wear overalls and dresses and are also machine washable.

A table is piled high with a variety of toys, such as fire engines, wooden dinosaur and bear crayon holders, hopping frogs, bright yellow "Crazy Cat" hand puppets and many other intriguing items.

A Juke Box? There is really something for everyone at The Mole Hole. How about a very special mini juke box? This replica of the Wurlitzer plays tapes of late '50s and early '60s pop music. There is a variety of lovely wind chimes, a decorative pen-size flashlight for $5.95, a display of handsome soup tureens, as well as an assortment of Sandicast sculptures of dogs and cats in different sizes and poses.

FESTIVAL OF FOODS: A European-style market hall is the aim of Kaufelt's Grocery, located at Princeton MarketFair. Noted for its fine foods, the market also specializes in catering, says catering manager Barbara Watson. Adds owner Robert Kaufelt, "Probably the biggest part of our business is catering. We do all types and sizes — from simple platters and sandwiches to the highest level corporate or social occasions, such as weddings."

You will also find notes and greeting cards, and decoys, decanters and bookends will appeal to the man in your family. For the star gazer, there is "The Cosmic," a compact hand-held guide to the stars and constellations.

"The Mole Hole buys from 500 different sources," explains Mr. Haines, "so we have a little bit from many people. Also, we're having fun with this. I like it when the customers enjoy themselves here. We want people to have a good time. We're not deadly serious. We want to see them laugh when they're here. Of course, the real thrill is when they buy something."

If you are in the mood for something on the lighter side, The Mole Hole can accommodate you. There are gourmet chocolate-covered potato chips for $5.95. On the other hand, there is also a diet fork with one prong for $2.95 and a "Pack of Diets" (like playing cards) for $5.95. For the golfer — with a sense of humor — there is a special "Exploding Golf Ball." When struck, the ball disappears in a puff of talcum powder.

Service is a high priority at The Mole Hole, says Mr. Haines, noting, "Our staff are all good people. They're very friendly and experienced. Service is very important here. We want customers to be greeted and to feel comfortable."

Gift certificates and complimentary gift wrap are offered, as are mailing and shipping.

Also, those Mole Hole customers who travel to the New Jersey shore in the summer will be pleased to know that Mr. Haines and Mr. Oehler will be opening a new Mole Hole on Long Beach Island.

The Mole Hole is open Monday through Saturday, 10 to 7, Thursday and Friday until 9, and Sunday 12 to 6.

Service and Selection Priorities at Kaufelt's

"I'm third generation grocery. My grandfather started Kaufelt's Grocery in Perth Amboy in 1920, and after World War II, my father and his three brothers established what became the Mayfair Supermarket chain which traded under the Foodtown name. It's a family business," explains Robert Kaufelt, owner of the latest in the line of respected Kaufelt's groceries.

The new market, which opened in Princeton MarketFair on Route 1, specializes in a variety of high quality meats, seafood, cheeses, produce, baked goods, deli items, and hot and cold take-out food. It focuses on the customer of today, someone who appreciates quality, service and selection, as well as the opportunity to choose from a wide assortment of prepared items.

"I was president of the Mayfair chain," recalls Mr. Kaufelt, "but I felt ready for a change. The company grew and was successful. We had upscaled the supermarket, the seafood department, added a better bakery, better deli and take-out food, but I had in mind to go beyond that. I wanted to

General Decorating Tips

One way to increase the beauty in a room is to use the combination of a wall mirror, a table under that mirror, and an attractive accessory placed on the table in front of the mirror. By placing the good-looking accessory there you get double exposure of its beauty; it will be seen by itself and it will also be reflected in the mirror to be seen at other angles throughout the room.

A practical piece of furniture for your hallway is a chest that has space on top to hold mail, keys, etc., and drawers underneath to store odds and ends.

Always try to leave room in a bedroom for a comfortable chair or chaise.

Don't neglect the decorating possibilities that lamps can give you. By picking the right size and shape, you can give your room a better overall decorator look.

have a European-style market hall, store focused on quality, service and products that are unique.

"'Gourmet' can mean products that are often relatively obscure and frequently imported," he adds. "I think we're beyond gourmet. We want to reach a broader market. We've brought in foods and products that are in the realm of everyday pricing. We have specials and lots of good low prices. We have staples, good product selection, and we work on sourcing our products. We have well over 700 vendors.

"We're interested in fresh, healthy, wholesome products," he continues. "What we value here are quality, service, unique products and reasonable prices. In every commodity category, we've selected the finest quality, and they are price competitive. We have specials every day. In the point of view of the prepared foods, we are really carrying restaurant foods at supermarket prices. It's a restaurant alternative that is a bargain."

Departments at Kaufelt's include Meats, Seafood, Produce, Deli, Grill, Cheese, the Food Bar (a self-service salad bar and other hot and cold dishes), Bakery and Prepared Food Case. Among the variety of specialties are stuffed shrimp, crabmeat and seafood salad, prime meats, Kaufelt's own Cordon Bleu, veal roasts, as well as "many, many selections in the prepared food case. We make these in our kitchen for on- or off-premises consumption, and the prepared foods have no preservatives."

Produce to Pastry. Prepared food dishes include chicken cordon bleu, fried chicken, spicy cajun chicken, sausage and peppers, filet mignon, Dijon potato salad, egg salad, and pasta and shrimp salad, among others.

Mr. Kaufelt also comments on "the wonderful produce and the unusual items such as California pomegranates, ugly fruit, as well as a variety of mushrooms — Portabella, hen-of-the-woods, shiitake, etc. We also have mandarin oranges, kumquats and top-quality plums, nectarines, peaches and grapes."

There are also mouthwatering pastries and baked goods. Apple tarts, raspberry mousse cake, Irish cream cake, Kahlua cheese cake, apple cake and turtle pie are among the favorites. Cherry scones, chocolate chip scones, baklava, assorted filled croissants and fresh baked cookies are also available.

Mr. Kaufelt mentions that a cafe will shortly be added so that customers will be able to enjoy a relaxed meal or snack right on the premises. "It will be convenient to have coffee and cake or a hot fudge sundae after a movie," he explains. "Or else, people can pick up a salad at the food bar, a sandwich in the deli, or something from the grill or prepared food case and enjoy it at a leisurely pace in the cafe."

"We also have New Jersey Alba wines available here, and now it's possible for people to sit down and have a split of wine with lunch or dinner."

A wide variety of retail items is in stock at the store, and you can find an assortment of coffee beans, teas, ice cream (Ben and Jerry, Haagen Dazs and The Great Midwestern Ice Cream Co.), and frozen yogurt, as well as eggs, Boarshead bacon, crackers, potato chips, Walker's shortbread, Dr. Brown's soda, Soho natural soda and Coke.

Valentine Specials. A selection of candy, including Perugina, Droste and Tobler is available, as are fresh flowers and a number of Valentine's Day specials. Valentine bouquets are $5.99 each, a long-stem rose in a gift box is $4.99 and a sweetheart rose bush, $4.99. A Perugina cupid heart is $17.59, a Fanny Farmer velvet rose heart, $17.99, and a miniature sweetheart rose box, $6.99. Fresh-baked cherry pies are $5.99, and a homemade Valentine layer cake, $3.99.

"We also have a 'Valentine Basket for Two' for $49.95," says Mr. Kaufelt. "It includes French champagne, camembert cheese, roasted duck with raspberry sauce, wild rice, sauteed green beans, French bread and Lindt truffles. This is a special Valentine's treat so you don't have to bother to cook. But try to order 24 hours in advance."

Other special prices at Kaufelt's include Black Forest ham at $9.99 per pound, cooked and steamed shrimp, $7.99 a pound, top-of-the-line ground chuck, $1.49 per pound, a 17-ounce jar of imported Adriatic jam at 99 cents, high-quality imported Dorella pasta, 59 cents a pound, and Alpine Swiss dried soup, 59 cents.

"Also," notes Mr. Kaufelt, "in terms of catering, I have access to chain store costs because of the family business, so we can offer more competitive prices."

In addition to the prices, Mr. Kaufelt believes his market has other features which set it apart. "The design of the store and the design of the merchandise are unusual. We try to combine all the senses. We're conscious of the visual, the smells from the cooking, the sound system, and there are always samples for customers to taste. We're aware of layers and depth — how you move through the space. You're always discovering things. It makes it interesting to walk around."

"We also probably have the largest selection of prepared and specialty foods not only in New Jersey, but in the United States. A representative from the grocery trade journal came in recently and said this is the finest food store he's ever seen. In terms of quality, selection and value, we are unique. And when the cafe opens, you'll be able to come in and try our products right on the premises. That will be special."

"I'd also like to add that we are very fortunate to have an outstanding staff of really excellent people. Working with the people, both customers and the staff, is a pleasure for me. The other job was a high-level executive position, and this is smaller but has lots of interaction with people. There are lots of challenges and opportunities. Also, I live here now, and I'm beginning to become involved in the community."

Mr. Kaufelt also notes that the grocery offers special services such as consultation about food preparation. "Many people come in for advice about cooking certain things. We have several people who are very knowledgeable about food preparation."

"In addition, we're planning to get into cooking demonstrations and activities in conjunction with the mall. Recently, we had 11 different samplings and tastings going on, and every week we plan to offer other selections." He also mentions that Kaufelt's will be catering parties and fund-raising events for charitable organizations and can offer them special prices.

He reminds customers that "we're easy to get to and there's plenty of parking. I hope we'll be doing more and more business, and I hope we'll be recognized as the finest food store in the marketplace. We believe it is — in terms of products, people, design, quality, service, value and prices."

Kaufelt's is open Monday through Saturday from 10 to 9 and Sunday 10 to 6.

Despite Well-Played Loss to Harvard, Tiger Hockey Team On Target for Reaching Playoffs with Six Contests Left

Before big crowds both nights (a 2,543 sellout Saturday), the Princeton hockey team grabbed for the glory last weekend, and just missed, but still finds itself in decent shape in its battle for an ECAC playoff spot.

The Tigers did what they had to Friday night, defeating Dartmouth, 5-2, and the following evening almost did what they desperately wanted to do: BEAT HARVARD. It was close all the way, but the result was a 3-2 Crimson victory.

The win over the Big Green thrust coach Jim Higgins' team as high as fifth place for 24 hours, but following the Harvard loss they settled back into a tie for sixth with Clarkson. That, however, is higher than

Messuri Has a Night to Remember, Then Experiences One to Forget

John Messuri, Princeton's premier hockey player, had the best and the worst of it on successive nights in Baker Rink last weekend, leading the Tigers to a win Friday and a loss on Saturday.

The junior center played superbly against Dartmouth Friday night, getting a goal and two assists. The three-point game was his sixth of the season, and the two assists established a new Princeton career mark of 69, breaking the mark set by defenseman Cliff Abrecht two years ago.

Messuri received congratulations in the locker room after the game from John Cook, class of 1963, who together with John McBride, '60, holds all the rest of the Princeton scoring records. With another year to go, Messuri may break all the rest by the time he graduates, but it should be remembered that Cook and McBride played varsity hockey for only three seasons. Freshmen were ineligible at that time.

The following night, Messuri was intent on doing as well against the league's best team, whose roster includes many players he played against in high school in the Boston suburbs. However, he was constantly dogged by the Harvard defense, and rarely had a moment to get free for a shot. He ended the game without scoring a point, and his frustration, which had been building throughout the game, was obvious to all by that point.

He was hit with a slashing penalty in the first period, and one for roughing in the second, and Harvard cashed in on the latter, scoring a power play goal for a 2-1 lead. In the third, after Harvard goalie John Devin stopped his hard drive on a semi-breakaway, Messuri was called for highsticking after he repeatedly jabbed at a Crimson opponent with his stick. Before he was out of the penalty box, the Cantabs had scored the game-winning goal.

Messuri completed the night with another highsticking penalty, less than a minute after he got back on the ice. This one appeared unintentional, but it was called, and when Messuri showed his displeasure, he was hit with a 10-minute misconduct penalty that took him out of the final 4½ minutes of play.

big saves on several occasions to keep the Tigers in contention to the final buzzer. He stopped 32 of 35 Crimson shots.

On offense, Princeton must never let the power-play chances it had Saturday night evaporate without scoring a goal. It went zero for nine against the Cantabs, including a first-period stretch of 3:38 and one in the second for 1:48 when it had a two-man advantage.

The first time they skated five-on-three the Tigers fell victim to being over-anxious and never did set up properly in Harvard's zone. The aggressive play by the Crimson defenders also hurt, and goalie John Devin stopped only two shots during this span. The Tigers were more disciplined the second time, but Devin was equal to the challenge. In Princeton's defense, it was facing a team that has successfully killed 87 percent of its penalties.

A Princeton mistake led to the first Harvard goal of the contest at 5:56 of the first period. John Weisbrod pounced on a loose puck off the stick of freshman defenseman Sean Gorman deep in the Princeton zone, and beat Salisbury from 20 feet away just to the right of the slot.

After some thrusts at the start, Princeton's offense could not put much together the rest of the period, even with the two-man advantage, but the defense did hold off further scoring by the Crimson.

The Tigers managed to draw even at 7:51 of the second on some fine work by third- and fourth-line players. Devin stopped a shot by Kevin Sullivan from in close, but Chris Hughes the Orange and Black has ever been this late in the season.

As the words on the dressing room blackboard read, the team is still shooting for "home ice" advantage, but realistically that has become very much a long shot now. It must finish at least fourth to gain that perk. With six games left to play, and five points behind, the Tigers would need to win at least five to have a prayer of catching either Cornell or Colgate.

But the teams below the top four are more tightly bunched, and a fifth-place finish is indeed possible. That would put the Tigers on the road in the playoffs, but against a team like the Raiders, whom they did manage to beat in Hamilton. A seventh- or eighth-place finish will send them up against St. Lawrence or Harvard, and that is to be avoided.

The six remaining games are all winnable, starting with Vermont and RPI away this Friday and Saturday. The final pair of home contests come the following weekend against Clarkson and St. Lawrence, and Old Nassau will finish the regular season at Yale and Brown on February 26 and 27.

To maintain or improve their spot in the standings, Higgins' men need a minimum of a split each weekend. Vermont and RPI both knocked off Princeton in Baker in December, but both have had their troubles since then. Lowly Brown upset Vermont Friday night and RPI fell to Yale. The Tigers need to prove the win over Colgate two weeks ago was no flash in the pan, but the mark of a vastly improved team.

Salisbury's Play Is Key. Obviously the play of any goalie is important for a hockey team, but even more so for the Orange and Black at the moment. After riding the bench for most of the season, freshman goalie Mark Salisbury has turned in impressive performances in his last three games, starting with the victory over Colgate.

Last weekend, he stopped 23 of 25 shots against Dartmouth, but looked even better in the Harvard loss. The high-powered Crimson attack put constant pressure on the rookie goalie, but he came up with Here's an amazing basketball fact ... Despite all the great players in recent years, nobody has ever topped the major-college record for most rebounds in a season by one player, set back in 1953 ... Walt Dukes of Seton Hall established the all-time record with 734 rebounds that year — but it's incredible that no one has bettered it in all the years since then.

How is your arithmetic? $100 per day for four years in a nursing home = ?

Here's a sports oddity ... By a mere nine seconds, Syracuse lost both the national championship in basketball and a perfect season in football — in the same building ... On March 30, 1987, in the NCAA basketball final, Syracuse was leading 73-72 with five seconds left when Indiana scored to win 74-73 ... Then in the Sugar Bowl, January 1, 1988, Syracuse led 16-13 with four seconds left when Auburn kicked a field goal to tie Syracuse and end their perfect undefeated-untied football season ... Both games were played in the New Orleans Superdome.

Did you know that when the first Olympics were held in the town of Olympia, Greece in ancient times, there was just ONE event — a running race that lasted less than a minute!

Unbeaten Dartmouth Will Be in Jadwin Friday Night, And Tigers' Shot at Ivy Title May Be Over If It Wins

Come out to Jadwin Gym Friday night at 7:30, and see whether the Princeton basketball team will remain a viable challenger in this season's Ivy basketball race.

The answer will be pretty definite by about 9 p.m., after the Tigers finish playing unbeaten Dartmouth. Led by the Ivies' leading scorer, Jim Barton, who is averaging around 24 points a contest, the Big Green is atop the standings with a 6-0 mark. Harvard, which beat both Yale and Brown at home last weekend, will be in Jadwin the next night.

Pending the outcome of Tuesday's game against Penn at the Palestra (see page 1 for result), the Tigers have already lost once or twice, and either way, allowing the Big Green to win in Jadwin would pretty much end their title chances.

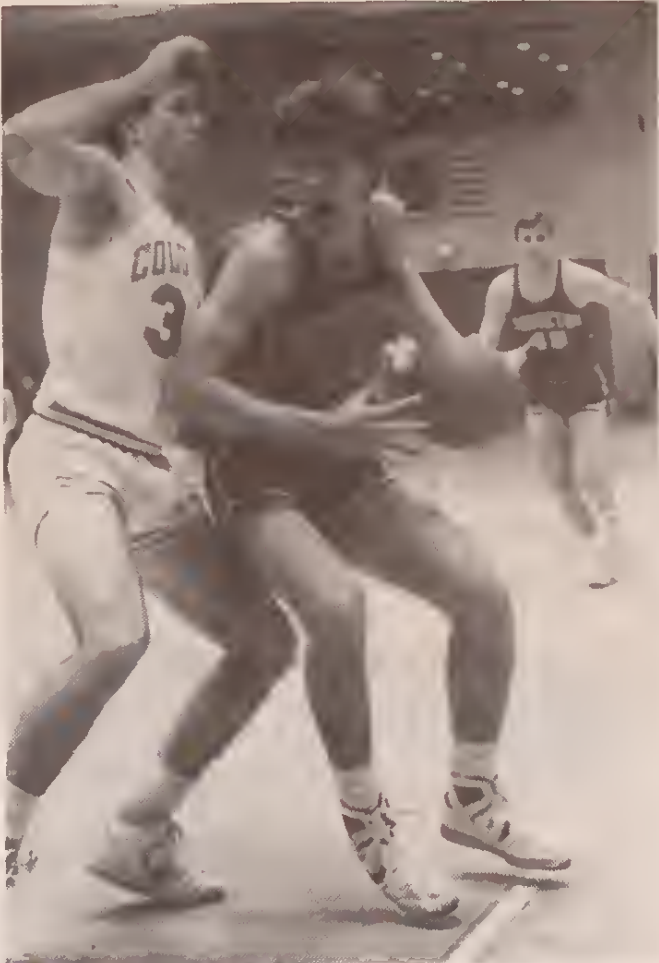

The first loss came Friday night to Cornell in Ithaca, 60-55. The Orange and Black rebounded the next night for an easy triumph over Columbia, 69-47.

The two games point up in simple fashion what the Tigers can do against a weak team and what they can't against a good one. On Friday evening, Cornell's tough man-to-man zone did not allow the Orange and Black to sit back and toss in three-pointers. They never even got the chance to shoot them, getting off only seven attempts.

The next night, Columbia chose to play a combination zone, and hardly put any pressure on the Tigers at all on the outside. Princeton hit nine of 15 from three-point land, and won going away. Dave Orlandini (13 points) was three for three on three-point attempts, Bob Scrabis (15 points) was three of six, and Tim Neff (six points) hit on two of three. Kit Mueller finished with 14.

Look for Dartmouth to try and take away Princeton's outside shooting the way Cornell did. And be certain that Pete Carril will spend practice this week working on ways to open up that shot for his players.

"The only thing that worries me is that our three-point shots come without preparation," Carril commented after the game. "It never dawned on me that people would take that shot away from us like Cornell did Friday night. Now, I might have to make them aware that they have to do this special thing to set up this type of three-point shot, or try any of these four things, and that will do it."

THE LIONS WERE EATEN ALIVE: After a disappointing loss to Cornell the previous night, Princeton routed a weak Columbia quintet, 69-47, on Saturday for its third Ivy victory. Kit Mueller goes for two here.

The three-point shot wasn't the only thing working against a weak team like the 3-14 Lions. Princeton out-rebounded the Light Blue, 26-23, winning that battle for perhaps the first or second time all season. Columbia guard Matt Shannon, who had been averaging 17 points a game, was not a factor in the contest, ending up with just 14 points.

The Tigers got ahead early in this one and steadily expanded their lead to 31-21 at the half. After using just his starting five the night before, Carril substituted freely throughout the contest. The second half was a ho-hum affair with the Orange and Black pulling away to its eventual 69-47 victory.

Princeton shot 59 percent from the field, while the Lions could sink just 37 percent of their shots.

Tigers Bomb in Barton. Cornell's Barton Hall is fast becoming the graveyard for the basketball team that the Yale Bowl has been for Princeton football over the past two decades. The Tigers lost at Cornell for the sixth straight time on Friday night.

They began as if they meant to break the jinx, outscoring the Big Red, 9-2, in the early going. However, when the Ithacans got rolling, and scored 12 straight, that lead was quickly wiped out. Cornell jumped in front, 19-14, and held that margin through the rest of the first half. It led 33-29 at the intermission.

The winners stayed in front throughout most of the second half, but the Tigers managed to remain in contention. A successful three-point shot by Neff finally put the Orange and Black back on top, 53-52. After Cornell missed its next shot, Princeton had a chance to increase its lead, but Mueller turned the ball over. The winners took advantage, scoring on a lay-up by Wolfgang Florin to regain a 54-53 lead.

Neff's next three-pointer missed, and Cornell got two more points from Mike Milane. As time wound down to under a minute, Mueller and Cornell's Sam Jacobs both hit a pair of free throws, leaving the lead at three.

Princeton's final chance came when Orlandini went for three points, but his shot was tipped and bounced off the front rim. Two more foul shots gave the home team a 60-55 triumph.

Carril's men weren't particularly impressive from either the field or the charity stripe. They hit on less than 50 percent of their field goals, 21 of 44, and were only nine of 15 on free throws. Cornell proved better in both departments, for 23 of 42 and 12 of 14.

The three-point shot is supposed to be one of Princeton's strengths, but it took only seven shots, making four. Orlandini and Mueller had 16 points apiece, Scrabis, 15, Neff, six, and Thompson, two. Carril went all the way with these five.

"I think subconsciously they were thinking we'd go undefeated in the league," Carril said. "And it wasn't going to happen that way."

Now they had better think about just trying to stay in the race was positioned by the left post to knock the rebound in. It was only the second goal and second assist this season for each.

The visitors regained a 2-1 lead at 13:08 on a power-play goal by captain Steve Armstrong that Salisbury had no chance on. The Crimson had worked the puck around superbly prior to Armstrong's shot from close in. The Tigers had survived two earlier shots which banged off the post behind Salisbury.

The Princeton defense stifled Harvard's attack thereafter, and in the third, the Tiger offense began to pick up steam, and keep the puck in the Harvard zone more often. The pressure paid off at 8:58 when Kelly Szautner slipped the puck past Devin after a scramble in front of the net. Dave Umland picked up an assist.

Thoughts of an overtime began to materialize at this point, but a couple of untimely penalties hurt the Orange and Black. They managed to kill one to Jim Sourges, but when John Messuri followed him off less than two minutes later, for a foolish high-sticking infraction, it was too much.

Princeton survived a 33-second, two-man advantage for the Cantabs, but a minute later, still one man up, Harvard got the game winner when C.J. Young went almost the length of the ice and put the puck by Salisbury on the short side.

Princeton battled on to the end, and Devin was called up to make a couple of big saves to preserve the 3-2 victory. A fantastic turn-around shot by Polaski from near the left point almost found the mark with less than 10 seconds remaining. The Tigers, who had 25 shots on the night, had played another solid game against the best team in the East, but come up just one goal short again.

Dartmouth Dumped. It may not be quite accurate to call Friday's contest with Dartmouth a warm-up for Harvard, but the Tigers were clearly the better team on the ice this night. There was to be no let-down in a game they felt certain they could win, and pick up two more points in the process.

The Tigers got off to a quick start with less than three minutes gone in the first period. Messuri won a face off to the right of the Dartmouth goal, sending the puck back to Polaski at the top of the circle. His quick low shot found the far corner of the net before goalie Steve Laurin could react.

The Big Green tied the score midway through the stanza with the teams skating four a side. Tom Finks sent the puck past Salisbury at the 10:50 mark, getting off an uncontested shot from the left side about 15 feet away that nestled in the far corner.

The first power play of the night came the Tigers' way later in the period, and they quickly capitalized on the opportunity. Messuri fed the puck from behind the net to Polaski on the right point, and his sizzling shot was tipped past Laurin by Blaeser, who was just to the right of the goal.

Princeton really took command of the contest in the second period, outshooting Dartmouth, 16-5. Early in the second, Laurin mishandled a shot by Jim Sourges, failing to control the puck, and Umland was there to knock it into the net for a 3-1 advantage. A high-sticking penalty cost the visitors another goal at 7:09 as the Tigers went two for two on power plays.

This one came after the Tigers provided a textbook demonstration of how to work

WHO'S GOT THE REBOUND: The shirt hides the number so we're guessing this is Timory Howe (50) of Princeton Day fighting for a rebound in Friday's game with Montclair Kimberley. the puck around the zone with an extra man. After several seconds of controlling the puck, Kelly Szautner sent the disc to Polaski on the left side, pulling the Dartmouth defense in that direction. Polaski found Messuri all alone by the right post, and the junior center had merely to direct the puck in an open side of the net from point blank range.

Dartmouth stayed in contention with a goal at 10:08 of the second, and kept up the pressure in the third, but the last goal of the contest went to Princeton midway through the final frame. Lenny Quesnelle's slap shot from the top of the circle caromed off Laurin's pads and into the net at 11:19.

Four Losses Sustained By PDS Girls Basketball

If losses help build character, as the saying goes, the Princeton day girls basketball team will have plenty by season's end. The Panthers lost four more games last week, and now stand at 2-9 with three games remaining in the regular season.

George defeated PDS, 50-38, a week ago Monday, Kent Place won 32-18 on Wednesday, Montclair-Kimberley triumphed, 55-25 on Friday, and this past Monday, Hun took a 38-32 decision.

A horrible first half against MKA put the Blue and White down 28-6 at the intermission. However, it improved markedly in the second, scoring 19 points. Timory Howe scored 11.

In a much closer contest against Hun, Princeton Day led 20-18 at the half, but ran into tough times in the third period, scoring just one point, while the Raiders threw in 12. Despite playing better in the fourth, PDS could not make up the difference.

Howe had an outstanding game, getting 21 of her team's 32 points. PDS will play Villa Victoria this Wednesday at home, meet Medford Vo-Tech on the road Thursday, and finish against Lawrenceville next Tuesday.

Exciting Win in Hockey Ends PDS Losing Streak

Something good had to happen for the Princeton Day boys' hockey team.

After winning its first three outings of the season in December, the Panthers had suffered through a seven-game losing streak that began with a 5-0 shutout by Chatham on December 17. The defeats piled up in January, often by embarrassing margins, despite the fact the team was playing fairly well most of the time. February began in similar fashion with a 14-3 loss to Morristown High.

The game was not as one-sided as the score sounds. The visitors led just 3-1 after one period, with Hardy Royal getting the PDS goal. The third period was close also, with the winners outscoring PDS 3-2. Jamie Knill and Jeff Zawadsky tallied in that one. But the middle stanza was a nightmare, with Morristown zipping in eight unanswered goals. Jon Clancy got his first start in the nets, and played two periods; Alan Howard replaced him in the third.

Last Friday afternoon, coach Bill Minter's players were back on the ice, still looking to break the losing streak, this time against Upland Hockey Club. The Panthers got off on a promising note when Matt Henderson tallied with 3:03 left in the first period to give PDS a 1-0 lead.

That held up until 8:02 had elapsed in the second, when Upland tied the score. Although the action was fast-paced at both ends of the ice, there was no further scoring in that period and for a good part of the third. However with 6:52 left in the game, Upland broke the tie on a 40-foot shot from the right side that sailed past a surprised Howard into the far corner.

Although this would at least be a close one, PDS seemed headed for its eighth consecutive loss. To their credit, the Panthers did not let the goal get them down. They continued to press for the tying goal, and their efforts were rewarded three minutes later when Knill scored on a sharply-angled shot from about 20 feet out on the left side.

That brought the game back to a tie, but what good is that after seven losses? PDS battled on and got a break with 20 seconds left when Upland was penalized for having too many men on the ice. That left barely enough time for one final assault.

Knill won the face-off, took the puck into the Upland zone, and took a shot. The rebound popped back to him, but his second shot was partially blocked. The puck slid over to Will Fisher, whose shot was stopped. With the puck moving closer to the cage each time, Brit Eaton took the next shot; it hit a defenseman and stopped right in front of the Upland goalie. As he went to fall on it, Zawadsky, who had stationed himself on the right post, poked the puck between the goalie's legs and into the net. The time remaining on the clock: 0:00.

"It was a great comeback," commented Minter. "A team with less character would have folded, but these guys didn't. It was so exciting to finally be in a hockey game, there was no way they were going to give up."

Princeton Day Girls Tie Penn, 2-2, in Ice Hockey

It's been slow going for the Princeton Day girls' hockey team this winter.

The young team lost six seniors from last year's squad, plus two other talented players who switched to Lawrenceville.

As a result, the Panthers dropped their first five games, but last Saturday morning, the team showed all-around improvement in a 2-2 tie with a club team from the University of Pennsylvania.

The visitors' Debbie Martinelli opened the scoring with 10:01 remaining in the first period, the only goal scored in that period. Princeton Day responded with a pair in the second period to take a 2-1 lead. Laura Heins, one co-captain, got the first at 4:23, assisted by Liz Bylin and Kit Greenberg. The other co-captain, Elisa DeRochi put the home team in the lead with 2:51 remaining. She rushed the puck all the way up the ice from her position on defense and beat the Penn goalie with a beautiful shot inside the left post.

Penn managed to tie the score with less than a minute left in the period, and neither team could score again through the entire third period, and a 7½-minute overtime.

After a return match scheduled with Pelham for this past Tuesday, PDS will next play Lawrenceville on February 17. Stuart will be the opponent on February 19, and the season will end against Penn on February 23.

PDS Quintet Wins Two St. Joseph's Is Next

It had been almost eight weeks since its last victory, but the Princeton Day basketball team got two in two days over the weekend, its third and fourth of the season.

The Panthers had last won on December 14 against St. Joseph's, before squeezing out a 49-48 win over Neumann Prep last Friday. They followed that up with a 37-29 triumph over Newark Academy Saturday afternoon.

The Blue and White won the game from the free throw line, sinking nine of 15 attempts, including its last two that gave them the margin of victory. Paul Goldman made both with a little less than a minute remaining to erase a 48-47 Neumann lead. Neither team could score after that, as Goldman partially blocked a last shot by the visitors.

PDS led the see-saw battle by five at the end of the first quarter, fell behind, 31-27 at the half, and then regained the lead at the end of three periods. Brian Cribb had 15 points, Scott Kelberg, 13, and Goldman, seven plus five assists for the winners.

A return match with St. Joseph's is set for Wednesday; contests against Dwight-Englewood and Montclair Kimberley are scheduled for next week. The season's finale against ANC may be replaced by an out-bracket game with Newark Academy for the Prep B tournament on February 19.

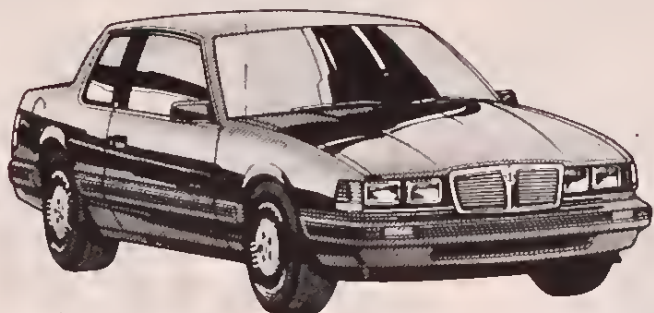

PHS Girls Lose to WW; County Swim Meet Next

Having failed one more time last week to upset its tormentor over the years, West Windsor, the Princeton High girls' swimming team will turn its attention next to the Mercer County Meet, which will be held Wednesday through Saturday. The PHS boys' team will also compete but is not favored in any events.

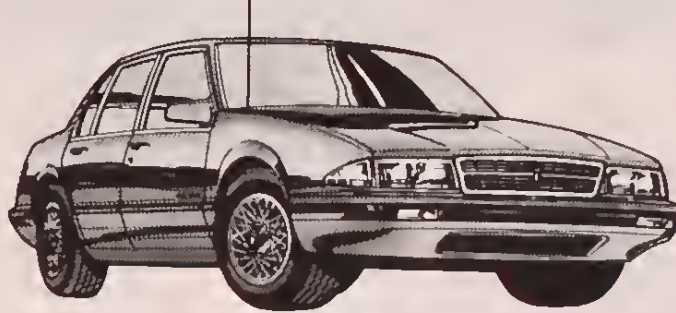

The girls' qualifying meet will be held Friday at 5:30 at the West Windsor bubble; the boys will qualify Thursday at 5:30 at the same pool. The diving competition will be held this Wednesday at 6 p.m. at the Hamilton High pool.

The boys' and girls' finals, consisting of the six top finishers in each event, and the consolation finals (7th through 12th) will be held Saturday at West Windsor, starting at 1.

In the girls' competition, Princeton junior Heather Tamm is the top seed in the 100 free, while teammate Kate Ashley is seeded first in the 100 back. Ashley, Susan Crystal, Amanda Schivell and Tamm are top-seeded in the 200 medley relay. West Windsor's Anamaria Baralt, who has battled Tamm the past two years for supremacy in the 50 and 100 free, is the No. 1 seed in the 50 free. West Windsor, undefeated in dual meet competition, is the defending county champion.

The West Windsor boys' team (12-0) is expected to rely on their depth to regain the county crown which they surrendered last year to Hightstown.

Princeton High senior Matt Sanderson is seeded second in the 50 free and third in the 100 free. Dana Hutchins is the third seed in the 100 breast.

Depth Is the Difference. In their showdown last week against unbeaten WW, the previously unbeaten PHS girls' team matched the Pirates in individual winners but fell to the Pirates' superior depth, 102-70. The PHS boys were overwhelmed by West Windsor, 118-49. The meet was held in Princeton's "home" pool at Trenton State College.

Ashley bettered her old school record of 2:24.0 in the 200 IM by flashing to a 2:21.1 time to win that event over the Pirates' Joyce Shu, and Tamm set a new PHS record in the 100 free of 55.37. The previous mark of 55.8 was set by Tamm last year. Tamm also won the 50 free in 25.88, beating rival Baralt in both events.

Ashley claimed the 100 back with a clocking of 1:03.71 and joined with Crystal, Schivell and Tamm to win the 200 medley relay in 1:59.00 to West Windsor's 2:02.01. Rory Owens was a double winner for WW, taking the 200 and 500 free events. Princeton's Danielle

Devereux was second in the 500 free and third in the 200, where her time of 2:02.48 was a new PHS record. The previous standard of 2:03.40 was set by Devereux earlier this year. Owens' winning time was 2:00.09.

The lone individual winner for the boys against WW was Sanderson, who won the 100 free in a new PHS record time of 52.91, bettering his own previous mark of 53.4, set earlier this season. Sanderson then teamed with Scott Petrone, Hutchins, and Mark Lonski to win the 200 medley relay in 1:50.43 — another PHS record. The same four had posted the previous school record of 1:52.4 this year.

PHS Dumps Pennington, Advances in MCT Event

In its season that has had virtually no high notes, the Princeton High basketball team sounded one last week.

PHS rode Darius Young's 36 points, a 50 percent team shooting performance and an effective pressing defense to defeat sixth-seeded Pennington School, 73-60, last week. The victory advanced it to a quarterfinal round match in the Mercer County Tournament against third-seeded Lawrenceville School.

The Little Tigers, seeded 11th, will oppose the Larries on Saturday at 5:30 in the Mercer County Community College gym. It will be the first meeting this year between PHS (5-12) and the 10-4 Larries.

Before that, in regular season play, PHS will oppose West Windsor for the second time (WW won the first meeting by 17 points) in a home game Thursday at 7:30. The Blue and White was also scheduled to meet improving Hopewell Valley and its 6-5 center, Tim Van Dyke, earlier in the week.

"All season long I've been saying we're going to get better," said pleased PHS coach Doug Snyder after the Pennington School blowout. And it was a blowout. The final margin of 13 was no indication of the disparity between the two teams' games. After Young had scored on four consecutive baskets to open the final period, PHS owned a 35-point, 67-32 margin.

"That's a good looking stat sheet," commented PHS assistant coach Tom Poetter, as he added up the numbers. It show-

Thurman Wins Squash Title
Princeton Day's Jennifer Thurman has won the 1988 New Jersey high school squash title, and two other Princeton boys did well in their division.

Thurman, a junior who plays number one on the Panthers' tennis team, defeated defending champion Diane Critchley of Bishop Ahr High School, 15-7, 15-10, 15-3. She is the second PDS player to win the event, which began nine years ago. Rachel Stark, now at Dartmouth, won two years ago over Andrea Hall, a PDS senior this year.

Reed Newhall of Princeton Day and Scott McGoldrick of Princeton High finished second and third in the boys' competition. Newhall, who is the top male singles' player at PDS, beat McGoldrick in the semi-finals, 15-8, 15-12, 15-7.

However, he lost in the finals to defending champion John Cumming of Delbarton, 15-9, 15-12, 17-14. In the battle for third place, McGoldrick beat Delbarton's Mike Nugent, 15-11, 15-11, 15-13.

ed that PHS had shot 50 percent from the floor — 29-for-60. It revealed that Young had 20 points in the first half, including three three-pointers to lead PHS to leads of 21-9 and 41-23 at the first quarter and halftime. (Young has poured in 414 points in 17 games this year for a 24.3 average; as a junior he scored 212 for a 12.6 average.)

What the stat sheet did not show in so many figures was how well the PHS press was working.

"It was one of our best games. We shot the ball well. I don't think we shot 50 percent in one game all year," said Snyder. "Our press worked well, too — one of the few times this season. We were playing a fullcourt press and then went to a halfcourt, man-to-man. I didn't feel they had anybody to stop our two guards and that turned out to be the case. They are a young team and we were able to force them into a couple of mistakes."

As for the coming contest with the Larries, Snyder reported that he has not seen Lawrenceville play this year. Two interested spectators in the stands were Larry coach Jim Waugh and his assistant, Armond Hill, former Princeton University standout. The two must have left pondering what they can do to stop Young and John Thompson.

The two senior PHS guards put on a clinic for the few in the stands. Young's eight-point spurt that opened the final period for PHS was typical of his play throughout the game: a steal by Thompson; a tapping tap-in from ten feet away of a shot that bounced off the rim; a layup off a turnover followed by a baseline jumper.

Thompson ended with 11 points. Sophomore Tom Shockley reached double figures for the first time with 10, while Jay Jackson and Tony White combined for 12 more Little Tiger points. The final 73 was the first time 5-12 PHS has reached the 70s since the second game of the season.

After PHS had gone up by 35 points, Pennington scored the next 13 in row. Snyder started to pull his starters with 4:33 left and with some two minutes left, when he sent in his jayvees, Pennington coach Dean Waters had had enough, too.

Keith Peterson, the Raiders' top shooter, was held to nine points in the first half. He ended with 21 but half of those came against the Little Tiger scrubs. Waters, who watched his team fall to 11-11, was nonplused by his team's performance. "We just didn't play defense; we just let them go by us," he said.

One Point Loss to ND. Princeton would have gladly traded some of those extra points against Pennington for just two against Notre Dame two days earlier.

With the game on the line and with the visiting Irish needing a win to even its record at 8-8 and nail down a berth in the state tournament, PHS missed a chance for an upset. Thompson took an inbound pass with eight seconds left and uncorked a 16-footer but the ball hit the rim and bounced away. With the miss, ND breathed a sigh of relief and prevailed, 49-48.

Earlier, with 50 seconds left, Notre Dame had ducked another bullet when Jay Jackson missed the front end of a 1-and-1. "We came back from being nine down and almost won but Notre Dame was patient when they had to be," said Snyder.

Young connected for a game-high 28 for PHS and Thompson added 12. Jackson contributed six and Shockley two as those four accounted for all of Princeton's points. The Irish attack was more balanced, as nine players scored. Mark Celenzana was high with 13.

County Tourney Is Next; Soderberg Sets Record

Princeton High senior Peer Soderberg set a new school record for the most pins in one season but the Little Tigers fell short in losing to Steinert Saturday in a tri-meet at Jadwin Gym on the University campus.

Wrestling up a weight at 171, Soderberg pinned Kevin Huestis of Steinert in 2:29 for his 13th pin of the season, eclipsing the previous mark of 12 set by now-assistant coach Keith Wadsworth in 1978. Overall, the undefeated Soderberg boasts a 17-0 mark.

Soderberg's fall, followed by Robert Perle's 12-6 decision of the Spartans' Bill Eversberg at 189 pounds, evened the match at 30. That left the outcome up to Will Dickerson of PHS and Charlie LeVach. Although Dickerson had a 63-pound weight advantage, LeVach scored a 3-1 decision to enable Steinert to pull out a 33-30 win and even its record at 6-6-1.

In its match with 6-4 Millburn, PHS forfeited three bouts and was outclassed, 51-17, to drop to 5-8-1 overall. The match, set up by PHS coach Matt Wilkinson at the start of the season, was supposed to be a quad-meet but even with the one defection, he described it as a unique experience for his team. It marked the first time a PHS team had ever wrestled in Jadwin Gym.

Ahead for the Little Tigers is the annual Mercer County Tournament that will be held Friday and Saturday, for the first time, at Trenton High School. It has been a long time since PHS has emerged with an individual county champion. "The well has run dry," agreed Wilkinson, who would like to see the drought come to an end.

Princeton's best shot, of course, is Soderberg. With his 17-0 record, Wilkinson expects Peer will be the top seed in the 160-pound class. His chief competition, says Wilkinson, will come from veteran Peddie wrestler Keith Bowen.

Other Little Tigers who, Wilkinson feels, can excel include junior 112-pounder Alex Fox, who pinned Jeff Clem, his Steinert opponent, in 1:09, and has been impressive as the season has progressed; 145-pounder Alfie Zullo ("the way he's been wrestling he can place"); Perle, who has been a steady competitor at 171 pounds, and sophomore Lawrence Mansier. Zullo was Princeton's lone double winner on the mat Saturday, shading Steinert's Chuck Vasta, 10-9, and topping Millburn's Steve Hill, 17-5.

Said Wilkinson this week, "Even before we go into it [the tournament] I know we can do well."

If the Little Tigers are carrying a burden entering the tournament, it is, says Wilkinson, an attitude problem. "A lot will depend on our attitude when we go out on the mat. We have an attitude block."

"What's been happening to our team," explained Wilkinson, "is a lot of our guys experienced real deep scars when they wrestled on the varsity as freshmen and sophomores. Those scars are really scars from years when we would get beaten 54-0. It's taken a long time for them to realize just because you're facing a Steinert, you're not going to get beat 54-0."

"If these kids can realize that whoever they wrestle can be beaten, that every match is different, if they just go out and do their best ... that's all that's expected of them. A lot of them are so nervous. I know there is a lot more pressure in a match like the county tournament to do well in front of their friends."

Spring Gets Unexpected Pin. PHS freshman Pat Spring is a good example of the fact that one never knows what may happen in a meet. Spring was sitting watching the Steinert meet when Wilkinson suddenly pulled him from the stands to wrestle at 160 pounds. As a precaution, "because you never know what the other team is going to do," Wilkinson had weighed in his entire jayvee team.

When it came time for Soderberg to wrestle at 160 pounds in his attempt to break the PHS pin record and when Wilkinson saw Steinert was going to send out an opponent whom he said "looked like a sacrificial lamb," he decided to bump Soderberg up to 171 and call on Spring.

Spring responded with a 3:29 pin of Mike Bertholet, after Bertholet had taken an 8-1 first-period lead. "I kind of gambled," recalled Wilkinson. "It turned out to be," he said, "a unique experience" for Spring — "to have a freshman do that under those conditions is just incredible."

Wilkinson's gamble looked better and better when Soderberg pinned and Perle gained a decision to tie the match. "We just didn't get it at heavy-weight, he sighed."

Also winning for PHS, in addition to Fox and Zullo, was Jim Greer, who captured a 12-6 decision at 119 pounds. PHS wrestlers who suffered pins were Matt Pickens (103 pounds), Josh Lederman (125), Jim Brophy (130), and Ed Bing (140). Brett Hoebel and Anthony Cucchi lost decisions.

Against Millburn, Wilkinson was forced to wrestle a lot of jayvees, he explained, because several of his varsity wrestlers were nearing the NJSIAA maximum limit of 22 bouts before the district competition. "It was an individual thing. We knew we couldn't win with the kind of lineup we had to go with."

Princeton's points came off first-period pins by Lederman in 1:29 and Bing in 1:45 and a five-point superior decision by Zullo. Spring was not able to repeat his heroics; against Millburn he was pinned in 1:02. Another freshman, heavy-weight Tona Palomino went in 24 seconds.

Earlier in the week, PHS feasted, 50-18, on winless Hopewell Valley, which forfeited four bouts. Pinning for PHS were Fox in 0:54, Jim Brophy in 1:12, and Cucchi in 3:31. Lederman and Hoebel won decisions, Lederman outlasting Eric Anderson, 15-13. Hopewell scored all its points with pins at 103, 160 and heavyweight.

PHS Wins, Hun Loses In Monday Wrestling

In two wrestling meets Monday, PHS used three forfeits and a pair of pins to power its way past Allentown, 46-19, and Hun School resumed after a nine-day layoff but the results were not encouraging — a 51-15 loss to Bristol High.

The Little Tigers improved to 6-8-1 off a fall by Alex Fox at 119-pounds and Robert Perle's first-period pin of Allentown's Travis Johnson in their 171-pound match. Ed Bing won by default after 26 seconds over Chris Rue at 140-pounds.

PHS got off to a four-point start when freshman Matt Pickens decisioned Allentown's Greg Madia, 9-0. Two Little Tiger veterans, Alfie Zullo and Tony Cucchi scored back-to-back decisions at 145 and 152 pounds.

After forfeiting the 160-pound match, the Little Tigers clinched it with Perle's pin and two forfeits in the final two bouts. Allentown dropped to 3-7 with the loss.

The Hun-Bristol match was reduced to nine bouts when Hun forfeited at 108 and heavy-weight and Bristol did the same at 158 and 189. Of the remaining nine, Hun won only one, a 16-10 decision by Yung Yoo at 141 pounds, to go down to its eighth dual-meet loss against two wins.

Hun's top wrestler, Brad Carris, was pinned in 4:56 by Jason Burgos in their 135-pound match, while Josh Waxman, another Hun standout this season, won by forfeit.

WW Edges PHS by Three For Winter Track Title

West Windsor won the CVC's Valley Division indoor track title last week — its first ever — when it edged the Princeton High boys' team, 35½ to 32½. The PHS girls' team defeated the West Windsor girls, 43-25.

Princeton's Rian Bogle won the two-mile in 10:25 and John Rogerson and Jerod Neas finished 1-2 in the 880, but the Pirates swept the 440, won the high jump and nailed down the win by capturing the mile relay in 3:51.

"It's nice to beat a rival like Princeton," commented WW coach Dave DeVido. Under his leadership, WW has steadily improved from 4-6 two years ago to 5-5 last year. This winter the Pirates are 8-1 overall and 5-0 in the Valley Division.

PHS coach Becky Mackey did some shuffling against WW in the girls' portion of the meet, moving several runners up to longer distances.

Candace Killmer, normally a 440 runner, won the 880 in 2:48.4 and sprinter Kesti Ringland captured the 440 in 68.5. Andrea Gonzalez-Lavin claimed the mile for PHS with a clocking of 6:15.5, edging teammate Julie Nelson by four tenths of a second. Nelson's usual forte is the 880.

Princeton's Sue Patterson lowered her previous personal best in the two-mile by :42 when she ran a 13:07.

Pee Wee's Are Unbeaten In Hockey League Play

The Princeton Pee Wee hockey team continued its winning ways on Saturday with a 3-1 win over Beacon Hill in Summit. On Sunday, the Pee Wee's traveled to Bedminster where the home team, Essex Hunt Foxes, salvaged a 2-2 tie with a goal in the final two seconds.

In both games, Mike Dawes led the way, scoring two goals against Beacon Hill and one against Essex Hunt. Peter Hegener scored the other goals. Against Beacon Hill, the Princeton team narrowly missed a number of scoring opportunities, in dominating the game from beginning to end.

Unfortunately, with a minute to go in the Essex Hunt game, Princeton was whistled for a tripping penalty which led to a furious finish. Essex pulled its goalie and skated six against four until it scored the tying goal.

Although Princeton had to settle for a tie, the team remains undefeated in league play with an overall record of 15-2-3. This weekend, the Pee Wee's will travel to Connecticut for games against Lakeville and Washington.

CJ Club Regains Lead In Hockey Loop Over BH

With the ten-game season winding down in the Commuters League, the Princeton-based Central Jersey Hockey Club regained the lead last week in the six-team southern division with a pair of victories.

Aided by a defense that allowed only one goal in both games, CJ ousted Beacon Hill from first place with a 6-1 triumph in Summit and then blanked the Essex Hunt Club team, 9-0, in Far Hills on Saturday.

In its next start, Central Jersey will host Valley Forge on Saturday at 5:45 at Baker Rink on the Princeton University campus.

The standings have evolved into a two-team race between CJ (5-1-1) and Beacon Hill (6-2-0). Wissahickon is even at 4-4-1 while Valley Forge (2-3-2), Essex (2-4-1) and Princeton Hockey Club (1-6-1) comprise the bottom half of the division.

In the battle for first place with Beacon Hill, Coley Donaldson led Central Jersey with five goals. The 40-year-old Donaldson, who skates on a line with John and Steve Cook, has 14 goals in the team's last three games.

Steve Cook accounted for the other goal and goalie Eric Monberg had 23 saves for the victors.

Against Essex, Donaldson led the way again with four goals. The 44-year-old Steve Cook contributed a pair, while John, his older brother added one.

In a footnote, although 46-year-old John Cook remains the all-time leading scorer for Princeton University with 120 points in a three-year career, his record is being challenged by PU junior John Messuri. Messuri scored his 120th point on Friday in a 5-2 Tiger win over Dartmouth.

Also scoring single goals for CJ against Essex were Tony Rosetty and Arch Reid. Defensemen Larry Sanford, Gib Johnson, Bob Smyth, Chris Fisher and Reid combined for the shutout. Monberg turned aside 16 shots.
